Slow business has innkeepers scrambing for answers

By DAVID LELAND

MUCH AS Carmel innkeepers would like one, there is no single answer to the alarming downward trend in room occupancy.

Some blame the earthquake, others the day trippers who stay in nearby Monterey, while many say the city is not offering enough assistance in promoting Carmel.

One thing, however, is certain: hotel owners are finding they must change with the times and aggressively pursue customers.

'Logic tells you that you better do something to get that person in there. The days are gone of unlocking the doors and watching the people go through.'

— Gary Luce
— Inns by the Sea

"Logic tells you that you better do something to get that person in there," said Gary Luce, of Inns by the Sea and chairman of the Carmel Business Association's Economic Development Committee. "The days are gone of unlocking the doors and watching the people go through."

Indeed, Carmel businesspeople became somewhat complacent during the mid-'80s, when business boomed and tourists flocked to the area with open wallets.

While some choose to blame last October's earthquake for the slowdown, Luce said during the first quarter of 1988, hostelry taxes fell by 0.5 percent, a phenomenon that had not happened since 1974.

During the first quarter of this year, the city collected $497,040 in hostelry tax, compared to $505,002 the year before, according to Sandy Davenport, financial services coordinator.

This marks a sharp contrast to previous years when the hostelry tax, which composes at least one-third of the city's annual budget, has risen by as much as 11 percent (in 1986).

'Supply and demand will get you right between the eyes. A night's lost rent can never be made up; it's gone forever.'

— Dennis LeVett
— Cypress Inn

"We're sort of on a watchpoint to see where it's headed," Davenport said, adding that the city is not relying on hefty hostelry tax increases for next year's proposed budget. "We can't, with any confidence, figure we're going to have an increase."

It is anybody's guess what the long-range impacts on city services will be if the 10-percent room tax continues to decline, but effects could be devastating.

"I'd be very, very concerned if I was the city," said Luce, adding that his research indicates tourists are also avoiding San Francisco (hostelry tax down by 7 percent), and travelling to Seattle.

"Tourists are looking for something new," he said. "And Seattle is doing a great job of marketing."

THAT'S NOT to say innkeepers are sitting calmly by while rooms remain empty, quite the contrary.

"I think everyone is looking at the way they do business, and that's not bad," Luce said, referring to strategies being bandied about by innkeepers. "It's harder to do business and we'll have to be smarter."

The Innkeepers Association is currently looking at solutions to the problem and will present a proposal to those concerned sometime this fall.

It is unclear who will pay for any solutions offered by the organization and Luce said he holds out little hope for monetary assistance from the city.

"Don't dare mention the word 'promotion' to Carmel-by-the-Sea," he said. "(However), it would be an investment for them."

It appears that 'promotion' may be just what is needed to get Carmel business back on its feet and its tourists in bed.

"We have to have a marketing plan," Luce said. "We want to bring to Carmel the type of customer that residents want to see."

Translated, that means people who stay longer and will spend more money.

That's opposed to the current type of customer, who is usually seeking a deal of some sort.

"A lot of our customers are more value-conscious and are looking for lower room rates," said Luce, adding that requests for ocean views at any expense are becoming less common. "Their first question is 'what's your most reasonable rate.' "

CBA President Kathie Ritter said she recently wrote a letter to the city asking for increased financial assistance in the CBA office, which often handles tourist requests.

With only two half-time workers, calls are many times answered by a machine. She requested a full-time worker and another half-time position.

She also is seeking to have the office open into the early evening hours, when many people arrive in Carmel and ask for directions to local inns.

THE CYPRESS Inn has taken the bold step of lowering its room rates by 5 percent in order to drum up business.

That, said managing partner Dennis LeVett, puts the majority of the 33 rooms at under $100, adding that there are simply too many rooms in the area.

"Supply and demand will get you right between the eyes," he said. "A night's lost rent can never be made up; it's gone forever."

Luce said he is not aware of other innkeepers following suit, however.

But LeVett said he thinks he is somewhat of a trendsetter.

"I felt it was well received (by other innkeepers). It certainly can't hurt that I've lowered my rates," he said. "I'd like to see everybody do it — I think we have to."

While LeVett said that there are many reasons for the current tourist drought, the main culprit is the turning over of large properties in 1985.

"Some were owned free and clear," he

City copying contract stays with Copies-by-the-Sea for fifth year

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL City Council had at least one hot item on its agenda Tuesday night: the city's photocopying contract.

The city re-awarded its contract to Copies-by-the-Sea owner Barbara Podoloff, who has served the city's large volume of photocopying needs for the past four years. The city requires about 200,000 single copies a month for its regular and special meetings.

Mail Mart was the only other bidder for the approximately $15,000 to $25,000 worth of city copying. Mail Mart has been in business on Dolores Street for approximately a year. It has mail boxes and does shipping and services general office communication. There is another Mail Mart in Salinas.

A city is not required to take the lowest bid, but it can base its decision on such things as quality of service. It must take the lowest responsible bid, the law states.

"We have worked with Copies-by-the-Sea since 1986 and have been very, very happy with the service," city clerk Jeanne Brehmer told the council.

Brehmer added that Podoloff does her copying on recycled paper, which is not part of the bid package.

Mail Mart submitted the lowest bid, an estimated $5,000 less a year for the photocopying, but the city council based its decision on the quality of work that Podoloff had given to the city and questions they have about Mail Mart's ability to generate the amount of copy that the city requires.

'We have worked with Copies-by-the-Sea since 1986 and have been very, very happy with the service.'

— Jeanne Brehmer
— City Clerk

Podoloff had many supporters in the audience who testified to the quality of her work and her generosity to the community. She has often put in late hours to ensure that the city council and planning commission packets are completed on time.

Miss Sunshine

Dear Editor:

About your story "Company Mom moves on to greener pastures" (Pine Cone June 7), Alice Estes was the nicest, warmest tenant a mean old landlord could ever have.

Last year I phoned the Pine Cone to place an ad for my studio apartment and after decribing it, Alice said, "I'll take it," which she did, sight unseen.

She has been "Miss Sunshine" ever since, and I too am sorry as you are that "Alice doesn't live here anymore!"

But no ad — again. She has recommended a friend who is moving in soon.

Just the facts

Dear editor:

The Hatton Canyon Coalition welcomes discussion and debate on all sides of the freeway issue. It is only through such public debate and through objective analysis of the alternatives that the best and most acceptable solution will emerge.

It is curious, however, that a group which supports the freeway that would destroy Hatton Canyon calls itself Citizens for Hatton Canyon. They have chosen a name that is likely to cause a great deal of public confusion about who supports what. We are concerned that people will confuse Citizens for Hatton Canyon with Hatton Canyon Coalition and Friends of Hatton Canyon.

Here's a layman's guide to who supports what:

• Hatton Canyon Coalition strongly opposes the Caltrans freeway plan but is withholding endorsement of any specific alternative pending completion of additional studies. It has contracted with Wilbur Smith Associates, a world-renowned traffic engineering firm, and Skidmore, Owings and Merrill, an internationally known planning firm, to analyze alternatives and plan a better solution. It has also hired a law firm and environmental consultants to challenge the EIS as soon as it is released.

• Friends of Hatton Canyon supports widening Highway 1 and has already filed several lawsuits to try and block the freeway plan.

• The newly formed Citizens for Hatton Canyon supports Caltrans' plan for the freeway through Hatton Canyon with elevated roadbed on a berm or "wall" across the mouth of Carmel Valley, and with no access to Rio Road.

The recent mailing by Citizens for Hatton Canyon suggests that a large number or organizations, including the City of Carmel, the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, and the Sierra Club support the Caltrans freeway plan. That was true 10 to 20 years ago, but is certainly not true today. Many people used to support what they had been led to believe would be a "scenic highway" through Hatton Canyon. They changed their minds quickly after Caltrans made public the details of its monstrous freeway plan. Today, these organizations, along with the League of Women Voters, are on record as opposing the Caltrans plan.

Almost everyone agrees that something needs to be done. We have serious traffic problems that cry out for solution. The Hatton Canyon Coalition believes the environmental impacts of the Caltrans freeway plan are so great that it should not be and will not ever be approved. At least four state and federal agencies have expressed opposition to the freeway because of its environmental impacts. Even Caltrans admits it is the most environmentally damaging alternative. The sooner we shift the focus to a more acceptable plan, the sooner we will have a solution to our traffic problems.

Caltrans' analysis of the effects of widening Highway 1 is misleading. They deliberately analyzed this alternative in a way to make it fail. In its draft EIS, they analyzed widening Highway 1 to four lanes with no other improvements! Not even with an underpass or overpass for southbound traffic turning onto Carmel Valley Road. Of course that wouldn't help. You don't even need the engineers to tell you that!

In response to public pressure, Caltrans is including in the Final EIS an analysis of four lanes with an underpas at Carmel Valley Road. That's some help. But what about an underpass under Rio Road for northbound traffic on Highway 1? What about an intersection to avoid the light at Carpenter Street? What about improvements at the Ocean Avenue intersection? What about closing off access to Highway 1 from Mesa and Atherton to avoid those turning conflicts.

There are many alternatives for maximizing traffic flow on a widened Highway 1. Until they are analyzed — and Caltrans isn't doing it — no one know how effective widening Highway 1 would be. That's why the Hatton Canyon Coalition has had to commission an independent analysis. That's also just one of about a dozen reasons why the Caltrans EIS may be tied up in court for many years.

Black air

Dear Editor:

There is something worse than freeways. That is the stalled autos, with motors running, that clog the streets. Those who care about the environment should abhor the "black air" along Highway 1 in the Carmel area that blackens the plants, the sundecks, and fills our lungs.

Instead, folks complain about the plan for enhancement of the Hatton Canyon that when developed as a freeway would be one of the beautiful and scenic roads in the state...and move the heavy traffic as well.

Imagine the wrath of residents and motorists of the city of Monterey if the freeway had not bypassed that city. Or the cities in L.A. area without freeways to move that massive population. Or the Bayshore Freeway from San Francisco if the Nimitz and Highway 280 had not been built.

Supervisor Sam Karas laments the freeways in Washington, D.C. That beautiful place would be a massive gridlock morning to night if the freeway had not been built around the periphery of the city.

We should have clean air, and motorists moving along to their destinations in a manner they should expect to enjoy. Build the road in Hatton Canyon now!

Propaganda mailing

Dear Editor:

The recent mailing by the Citizens for Hatton Canyon states that there has been a lot of misinformation published about the Hatton Canyon Freeway. That is true and this group compounds this misinformation in its propaganda mailing.

For example, it goes back to 1973, before a detailed design of the freeway, its monstrous proposed interchanges, and severe environmental impacts were known, to list organizations that supposedly supported the freeway then, but does not indicate the present position of some of these groups. The Carmel Knolls Property Owners Association has never supported the freeway. The Sierra Club does not currently support the freeway because of its severe impact on the environment. For the same reasons, the City of Carmel, which has flip-flopped on supporting the freeway over the years, has shifted its support for the widening of Highway 1.

Many people, including Supervisor Sam Karas, who are today concerned about the environmental impact of the Caltrans designs, have come to realize that a freeway through Hatton Canyon is not the answer.

The Citizens for Hatton Canyon flier focuses on widening Highway 1 to six lanes as the alternative to the freeway. No analysis shows that a six-lane highway is required or that it would be cost-effective. This alternative was inserted into the Caltrans Environmental Impact Statement and analysis as a red herring. Recent meetings conducted by Caltrans and others have shown that widening Highway 1 to three or four lanes will adequately take care of traffic flow for a long time to come. As a matter of fact, just the simple task of building an overpass or underpass at the junction of Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road would go a long way towards solving the traffic congestion at this principal choke point.

Any carefully prepared cost-benefit analysis will show that widening Highway 1 to four lanes is the preferred alternative in terms of costs, benefits, environmental impacts, and time. Even if a freeway were to be eventually built in the canyon, it would not occur before the end of this decade and at a cost of at least $55 million dollars, using a 5 percent inflation factor and an analysis I did some years ago which was quoted in the Pine Cone. Widening Highway 1 is included as an alternative in the EIS and could be accomplished easily within the next year or two at a cost of less than 10 percent of the above. It would provide traffic relief soon and, I am confident, take care of the existing problem in both a timely and cost-effective way.

The Sands Affair — A double standard?

IN THE APRIL city election a majority of the voters expressed a preference, by their selection of candidates, for lower-scale development and smaller commercial housing units. Mayor Jean Grace reminded the city council members of this at their June 5 meeting.

Yet, a massive, out-of-scale motel development that grossly exceeds the building code in allowable floor coverage and violates four elements of the General Plan will be the consequence of the city council's 4-1 vote at that meeting to not require the Little family to reapply for a building permit for reconstruction of their Carmel Sands Lodge.

In April, 1988 the city council unanimously approved Ordinance 99-03 which mandated that a building permit will expire if construction has not begun within a specified time period and a new permit incorporating any subsequent code changes is required. Under this ordinance, the Littles were told that they had to begin construction by April 22, 1990.

Despite the failure of the Sands owners to advance the project or to meet permit deadlines, the council majority on June 5 granted what appears to be special consideration. Ignoring Ordinance 88-03 and the findings of the city planning department staff, they found that the city permits were still valid. In contrast, the council had unanimously voted in 1989 to require another developer to reapply for his expired permit and bring his project up to current code.

There is another deeply disturbing aspect to this matter. It is rumored that the Sands property has been offered for sale.

Here are some facts in this worrisome case:

1. The owners were warned, repeatedly and in writing, by the planning department that the Sands project permit faced expiration on April 22, 1990. One written notification was given 16 months before the deadline.
2. The planning staff met with the owners on Dec. 19, 1988 to review plans. The staff outlined what corrections were needed to bring the plans into compliance. The required changes were never made.
3. The Coastal Commission permit for this project expired over one and one-half years ago. The city cannot issue a permit unless there is a valid Coastal Commission permit.
4. According to the planning staff, the plans for the proposed project exceed the city's current building code by 7,513 square feet of floor area.
5. The proposal calls for 3,000 square feet of office space on the second floor, which is prohibited by current city code, violates the second-story setback requirements, and has inadequate parking.

The city council's special handling of this project could very well come back to haunt them in future cases. The question might be asked, then, why this favored treatment?

A perceived double standard seems to provide some applicants with more sympathetic attention than others might receive. Many feel that the June 5 decision would have been different had this been an ordinary developer.

The vote came late at night — the council had been under intense pressure for nearly 7 hours.

Some council members believed that making the necessary changes to conform to the city code would further delay this ungainly project.

When construction begins on this massive complex and its impact becomes apparent, will the result be citizens clamoring, as they have more than once in the past, "How could this happen. Who is responsible for this?"

No major development slated for Mission Ranch

By DAVID LELAND

DESPITE RUMOURS to the contrary, Clint Eastwood's plans for historic Mission Ranch do not include major developmental tactics.

In fact, the three-phase, five-year plan, merely serves to bring portions of the 138-year-old ranch into the 20th century.

"It's a tough thing because you want to keep it the same, but you don't want it to fall down," said Eastwood, adding that a large number of infrastructure renovations have already taken place. "It was an accident looking for a place to happen."

Over the last three years, Eastwood secured more than two dozen county permits for repair and refurbishing, according to Carmel architect Allan Williams, who is working closely with Eastwood on the project.

'It's a tough thing because you want to keep it the same, but you don't want it to fall down. It was an accident looking for a place to happen.'

— Clint Eastwood

Previous work included rebuilding the barn, replacing electrical wiring and replumbing a large portion of the ranch.

"It's an extensive process," said Williams, adding that the former owners had repaired problems with temporary solutions. "Every time we turned around we ran into another Band-Aid."

The major portion of the proposed work entails taking down nine guest cottages and putting four buildings back in their place.

While that increases the room number from 26 to 31 units, the actual square footage on the ground is reduced.

The buildings are designed to have historic qualities, but not mimic the actual historic buildings which are the bunk house, restaurant, farm house and old storage barn.

Technically the proposed buildings are one story, averaging 22 feet to 24 feet, with an attic room available for guests. Bungalows now stand at 12 to 14 feet.

But Williams pointed out that the quadplex, to be nestled under a large cypress tree, will not obstruct and will be out of view for those looking at Point Lobos from Dolores Street.

Other work includes:

• Construction of a caretaker's cottage behind the barn. Currently the caretaker has a room over the restaurant.

• Installation of a well and drip system to keep the pasture green. Eastwood is working with the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District to irrigate riparian habitat along the Carmel River which preserves Cal-Am water.

• New units will receive one-gallon toilets, with current 1.5-gallon toilets being donated to senior citizens owning five or seven-gallon toilets.

• Twenty-four feet of the south wall of the restaurant will be moved out 12 feet, with two fireplaces installed.

The same amount of seating will be entailed in the new non-smoking section.

• A parking plan will be put into effect to maximize efficiency from the current park-where-you-want style.

Instead of lines, concrete bumpers will denote parking spaces, which will be increased from about 100 to 160.

• The eight tennis courts, now in disrepair, will be realigned and a new pro shop will also be constructed.

'I'm so impressed with what he is planning to do. It's a big improvement, it will actually improve the open space.'

— Helen Wilson
— Carmel Heritage

Williams said it is important to secure one all-encompassing permit from the county rather than coming back to the well over and over again.

"Everybody knows what we want to do down the road," said Williams, who plans to file the permit during the third week of June. "We're not going to nickle and dime people."

Phase 1 includes the tennis courts; phase 2 new units behind the dance barn; and phase 3 the new units near the restaurant.

"We'll have a 'new' old ranch that is good for the next 50 years," said Williams, adding that Eastwood has offered the bungalows by the tennis courts to the city for recreational use on the Hodges property.

WHEN EASTWOOD purchased the 20-acre Mission Ranch in December of 1986, residents rejoiced at the deal because it meant that a housing project slated for the ranch would be derailed.

The city had unsuccessfully tried to purchase the property, but had run into various snags prior to Eastwood's involvement.

When Eastwood entered the picture the Mission Ranch Corp. had proposed to build 61 townhouse units on about 8.25 acres of

Murphy House will get a big lift to its new location on June 28

By NANCY HILLS

ON JUNE 28, Michael J. Murphy's house will leave home.

The Carmel City Council voted June 7 to accept placement of the house on city property after Mayor Jean Grace announced that the Save the First Murphy Group had raised the $16,000 it needed to pay for the move.

The council "assumed jurisdiction" of the permit to move the house from the planning commission because the commission had continued the item. That would have put any final decision past the deadline for demolition of the house, which was early July.

Commission members Carla Ramsey and Stephen Poohar had stated there were too many questions about the ultimate use of the house and the loss of parking spaces to vote on the issue.

In a unanimous vote, the council assumed jurisdiction and authorized the closure of portions of Mission, San Carlos and Lincoln streets between Fifth and Sixth avenues while the small, 86-year-old home is moved down Sixth Avenue to its destination at Sixth Avenue and Lincoln Street.

The corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue is the location of three city-owned lots, two currently used as a dirt parking lot. The lots were originally purchased for a Harrison Memorial Library annex site but the annex was built in the remodeled Crocker Bank building on the corner of Mission Street and Sixth Avenue.

Placement of the house on the parking lot will result in the loss of 12 parking spaces.

Technically, the city council only decided to store the house on the property.

The council, against the advice of the city attorney, voted to take over ownership of the house from "blast off," as councilmember Bob Fischer put it.

That means the city will own the house once it leaves the ground. Though the movers will have insurance, City Attorney Don Freeman said he would prefer for reasons of liability that the city council wait until the house touches ground before taking possession.

The 820-square-foot house was the first home built in Carmel by M.J. Murphy,

She still holds a place in her heart for the memories of Nepal

By NANCY HILLS

CHRISTINE KOLISCH may sleep in Carmel Valley, but she dreams in Nepalese.

Nepal, the land of dreams, a mystical dwelling place of a gentle people, god-sized mountains, and, for 12 years, Kolisch's home.

Now, Kolisch is a Carmel Valley resident and homeowner and a Carmel-by-the-Sea shop owner, yoga instructor, photographer, entrepreneur, mother and the wife of photographer Craig Lovell. To step into her shop, Cheppu, is to step half a world away from Carmel.

In 1972, Kolisch was just one of a myriad of young Americans who in the late 1960s and early 1970s were struck with the desire to see, smell and touch other lands.

Most of those who joined this migration stayed for only a short visit, straying far enough to fill their minds with new sights and sounds. They kept one foot firmly planted on the road home.

Others went in a haze of fantasy and were lost forever.

Kolisch was one of the rare few that discovered the balance between fantasy and reality. She built a life in the country that is "on top of the world" that was as solid and real as any she would have had on her native soil.

In 1985, Kolisch returned to the United States a 36-year-old widow, bringing her 6-year-old son Bodhi Himal ("wisdom of the mountain"), and momentoes of the land she left behind, to open her shop.

Like others who return from such adventures, she brought with her the feel, the sense of the lands she inhabited like a subtle scent of exotic places.

Kolisch has that undefinable elan; more than her baggy dacca pants or distinctive jewelry. No dreamy-eyed wanderer, her big brown eyes are sharp-eyed and clear, her steps strong and sure.

When she returned in 1985 to the United States after a total of 15 years overseas, Kolisch found herself daunted by the prospect of facing the bustling, sprawling America.

"People used to say 'You're so brave to live in Nepal,' but I didn't think so. I thought they were brave to live in America. America was a big challenge for me. I was afraid. I didn't know how to make a living here and it was so expensive. I was out of touch," Kolisch said.

Her former and present homes are "totally on opposite sides of the world" in every respect, she observed, except for one important thing in common.

"They both have something so powerful in nature's influence, a special quality."

'I learned that you can carry your 'Himalayan high' whereever you go. It is an attitude, a state of mind. I hope that can continue to practice with me one of the great lessons I learned in Asia — patience — and apply it to my life in America.'

DESPITE HER fears when she returned, Kolisch has prevailed. Her shop is going well and a newly created wholesale business in coats from Nepal and Tibet is flourishing. She also teaches yoga at the Cherry Foundation and recently designed her own line of pants.

Kolisch lived and worked in Katmandu, the capital of Nepal, being in that most exotic-sounding place that most common of professions: a shopkeeper.

Cheppu, Nepalese for a protector spirit, continues that tradition and it is as hidden away in a little courtyard behind Em Le's on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, as the countries where the merchandise originates.

Kolisch only recently gave up leading walking tours, "treks," through the legendary Himalayas and Annapurna mountain ranges.

She often returns to Nepal to collect new items for her Carmel shop and visit the one that still exists in Katmandu. And she always returns to touch again the land that she remains so much a part.

Nancy Hills headed south for bigger and better things

By DAVID LELAND

WHILE LONGTIME Pine Cone reporter Nancy Hills surely has played an integral part in keeping residents abreast of the news, her tenure in Carmel may have merely been a prelude to bigger and better things.

When Hills, 40, resigns from the newspaper June 22 to pursue a master's degree in fine arts from USC School of Cinema and Television, she will following a dream began sometime ago.

EARLIER THIS month the City of Carmel awarded Nancy Hills, shown here with Mayor Jean Grace, a plaque for her excellent service in covering the city for The Carmel Pine Cone. (Chuck Scardina photo.)

"I looked into school in 1983, but I had never written," says Hills, who for the past six years has covered business, city government and water issues for the paper. "I didn't feel complete. I had things to write about, but I didn't have the confidence."

As the saying goes, if you want to become a writer, write. And so Hills relocated to Carmel from her home in Silverado, just outside Los Angeles, and began producing the "Business Beat" column for The Carmel Pine Cone.

"I got this job to force myself to write," says Hills, who shortly thereafter began covering Carmel Planning Commission for former Pine Cone reporter Michael Gardner. She also initiated coverage of the Monterey Peninsuala Water Management District.

Generating weekly copy can be exhausting, satisfying and exhilarating for a reporter, something Hills soon found out.

"I think I'm more realistic about the process of writing," says Hills, referring to the benefits she will take with her to USC. "It's harder than it looks; that may sound trite, but it's true."

After completing her three-year course of study at USC, Hills says she is considering directing, film editing and script writing.

But that's all in the future.

"At this point it's (school) something I have to do to complete the process," says Hills, adding that she is not sure how she will take to the glamor and glitz of Hollywood. "I don't know what the film industry will be like."

HILLS MAY not know what the film industry holds in store for her, but, during her stay in Carmel, she has surely become privy to what life is like in a small town.

To keep the length of her stay in perspective, consider that city government has changed several times since Hills arrived to find Charlotte Townsend as mayor, Sandy Swain heading up the planning commission and a city council composed of David Maradei, Helen Arnold, Jim Wright and Bob Stevenson.

What's been the biggest change in Carmel during her stay?

Hills believes that the loss of open space, resulting from development on the Bennett, Gamble and Kinnoull properties, has changed the residential district permanently.

Beyond that, Hills takes Carmel's growth in stride.

"I don't think parking is any more difficult," says Hills of the on-going problem. "(And) people still ask where the Hog's Breath is."

Topping the list for positive changes during her stay in Carmel is the Carmel Beach Walkway. Began after the torrential rains of 1982, the walkway now provides a place for residents to enjoy the natural beauty of Carmel Beach.

Hills says it is important for residents to keep tabs on where the city is heading as the year 2000 looms on the horizon.

"They need to get an objective overview of the city," she says, referring to the need for an environmental impact report. "The city has to decide what it wants to be and what those repercussions are — it can't be flopping back and forth."

Having spent much of her time wandering the streets of Carmel and talking to residents, Hills has noticed one major change which may reflect a time gone by.

"You don't hear people say 'Our little village' anymore," says Hills of growing Carmel. "Now they call it a town."

Hills will take with her precious memories of a job well done.

"I'll remember the people from The Pine Cone with love and affection; if it weren't for The Pine Cone group I would have gone bonkers," says Hills. "I'll also remember The Pine Cone readers."

To be sure, The Pine Cone staff and readers return the compliment for a job well done.

Innkeepers scramble

said, referring to sales of La Playa, Cypress Inn, Pine Inn, Jade Tree and others. "Rates, in most cases, were probably under $80, while many were $40 and $50.

"I used to boast that the most reasonable vacation that anyone could take was in Carmel."

What the turnover did was create new debt service for the owners, which boosted rates as much as 100 percent in the ensuing years.

He added that one reason Carmel's occupancy tax is not showing even more of a dropoff is because many owners are keeping their profits artifically up by continually raising rates to make up for less customers.

He said it's time for Carmel's innkeepers to become aware that they are only a small part of the growing tourist industry.

"The general attitude in Carmel is that you can do no wrong. There's been a gross disregard for some of the tourists' rights and comforts," LeVett said, adding that innkeepers need to look into the future when trying to conquer the problem. "We're not just working for the dollar today or next month, it's five years down the road."

Copies-by-the-Sea keeps contract

Michael Albov told The Carmel Pine Cone on Wednesday that Mail Mart is looking in to suing the city over the bid. The four owners of the business are Albov, Ted Leidig, Alan Kaplan and Elaine Arias.

The controversy actually began last year when Mail Mart opened and rumors started around town that it would bid on the city's photocopying. Podoloff is a tenant of Leidig's, in the courtyard on the corner of Dolores Street and Sixth Avenue.

Albov told the city council that his business has three copiers, one which can do color photocopying with better quality than Podoloff's machines, he said.

"We assumed that the bidding process was more than an (exercise)," Albov said. "You are looking at a decision on whether to spend $5,000 more a year to protect an individual who has been doing your copying for four years without any competition."

Councilmember Barbara Brooks questioned Albov about the number and quality of machines in the store. Albov said that the volume of copying in the store now is equal to the total that the city would have given them.

Brooks said she had visited Mail Mart that morning and been told by Leidig that there were two machines, one in the front and one in the back and that they have no customer now with the volume the city would give them.

Albov said that they would bring in another machine from Salinas if they get the contract. He reiterated the volume reflects the store's total amount of copying.

"I just wonder if you can put out the kind of volume that the city requires," she said.

Writer Bob Campbell told the council that this was more than a question of lowest bid.

"We are all concerned about the character of the village. More and more it is losing its small entrepreneur to the struggle of keeping it alive," Campbell said. "I don't think Mr. Albov is right that this is not about personalities.

"We are all concerned about the character of the village and we are more and more losing the individual to the 'uniformed personnel.' "

In Carmel it is a "matter of intangibles," the quality of service and the personal exchange when the customer comes through the door, he said.

Campbell added that Podoloff had copied his manuscripts for a reduced price, without him asking for it, when he was going through a "bad patch" as a writer.

About seven other speakers said they agreed with his comments about the city and added that she had done work for this cause or another free or at a reduced price. A few stated that Podoloff, as a single woman, came under minority status.

'You are looking at a decision on whether to spend $5,000 more a year to protect an individual who has been doing your copying for four years without any competition.'

— Michael Albov
— Mail Mart co-owner

When an angry Albov reiterated his statement about the bidding process not being an exercise and accused the city of favoritism, Mayor Jean Grace leaned forward and told him that "I don't think you need to be offended" that "we have a right to feel loyal to someone who has been loyal to us."

"We aren't tied to some prerequisite," she said.

Councilmember James Wright suggested that they reopen the bid with such things as recycled paper as a requirement, but the council decided to vote unanimously to keep the contract with Copies-by-the-Sea.

In other business, the council:

• Determined that it would discuss the purchase of all or part of one of the Probasco's lots that overlaps the 11th Avenue gate into Mission Trail Park.

• Appointed two new planning commissioners, Brian Congleton and Barbara Lyle. Grace said that she opposed Lyle, but she was outvoted by the rest of the council.

Panetta blasts lack of action on Monterey Bay sanctuary status

REP. LEON E. Panetta has sharply criticized the Administration's lack of progress on the designation of the Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary and threatened to introduce a measure in Congress to implement the designation legislatively.

Panetta made his comments June 7 at a hearing on the National Marine Sanctuaries Program held jointly by three subcommittees of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee. The session focused on problems in the designation process for marine sanctuaries, particularly on the Monterey Bay sanctuary.

In 1988, Congress enacted legislation authored by Panetta which required the designation of the Monterey Bay sanctuary by Dec. 31, 1989. However, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) has not yet issued a draft environmental impact statement and management plan, which is the first step in the designation process.

According to adminsitration officials, the delay has been caused in part by the Interior and Energy Departments' opposition to a ban on oil and gas drilling in the sanctuary that has been proposed by NOAA. Similar problems have held up the designation of other sanctuaries.

"After many years of experience and frustration with this program," Panetta said, "it is clear to me that the basic problem is simply the administration's refusal to accept the advice of its own lead agency NOAA on the regulation of oil and gas activities within a sanctuary's borders."

On Feb. 26, Panetta noted, he sent a telegram to President Bush urging him to fulfill his commitment to the environment by immediately releasing the regulations for the Monterey Bay as originally proposed by NOAA — but not made public — with a prohibition of oil and gas activities in the sanctuary and with NOAA's preferred borders.

"It is still inconceivable to me that such a telegram was even necessary," he said. "the president himself has stated on several occasions that he will not permit drilling in environmentally sensitive areas. Yet his administration cannot decide whether or not to prohibit new oil and gas development in a national marine sanctuary which by definition is environmentally sensitive. If Monterey Bay is not sensitive, then what is?"

Panetta continued, "More than three months after my telegram to the president, the draft environmental impact statement and regulations for Monterey bay still have not been released and I have received no indication that they will be released in the near future, despite the 1989 designation deadline contained in the law."

He added, "If there is no firm indication within the next few weeks that the draft EIS and management plan are to be released, I will introduce legislation to designate the sanctuary by law with the boundary lines, the oil and gas ban, and other regulations that were originally proposed by NOAA and have been circulating within the administration but have not yet been released to the public."

Panetta pointed out that Monterey Bay contains the largest underwater canyon on the North American continental shelf, three times the size of the Grand Canyon. The bay is home to 18 endangered and three threatened species. It has the greatest diversity of marine mammals in the world.

Other witnesses at the hearing included representatives of NOAA, the Interior Department's Minerals Management Service, and environmental and oil industry groups, and Monterey County Supervisor Marc Del Piero, a member of the Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary Steering Committee.

No major plans for The Ranch

the ranch, but had run into problems with the city and county regarding density levels and the necessity of an environmental impact report.

After purchasing the ranch for about $5 million Eastwood uttered his now-well-known quote in The Pine Cone: "Maybe the world doesn't allow you to keep things the same, but we can try."

But when the grapevine began to buzz earlier this year that massive two-story buildings would replace cozy bungalows and panoramic views would be blocked, tempers flared.

"I was very unhappy," said former Carmel Heritage member Helen Wilson, who was instrumental in talking Eastwood into purchasing the property. "I said 'Clint can't betray us this way.' "

But after hearing a presentation from Williams, Wilson changed her tune.

"I'm so impressed with what he is planning to do," she said. "It's a big improvement, it will actually improve the open space."

Williams added that no wetlands will be disturbed and trees will be moved when possible, and those that need to be cut down will be replaced.

For Eastwood, who first visited Mission Ranch in 1951, the problem has been how to keep the ranch from becoming a financial drain.

"If you are going to preserve it, how do you keep it viable," asked Williams, adding that Eastwood will not reveal the amount of money he has already sunk into renovations and the total he will spend with current plans.

While it remains unclear whether Eastwood will be able to recoup monies lost from his work, he remains firm in his vision.

"I just want to see Mission Ranch stay there," he said. "I don't know if it will ever be viable, but it's worth trying to take a stab at keeping it out of condominiums."

FIRST PERSON

Waxing Poetic

THE FOLLOWING students take part in "Literary Garden," ongoing classes in creative writing taught by Illia Thompson through Monterey Peninsula College under the auspices of the Older Adult Program.

Laura Bayless, longtime Carmel Valley resident, spent her childhood in Pacific Grove. Five years ago, she began writing, and will be reading her work as part of the "Pot-Pourri Poets" presentation on April 18.

Roy Coon, former social studies teacher at Tulare High School, rediscovered his poetic flair after retirement in Pebble Beach. (He'd written birth announcements for his children in his poetic form!)

Bessie Linvill, a Carmel resident, shows her love of the area through her writings.

No TV

By Laura M. Bayless

I couldn't play dodge ball
but I was good at jacks, loosely piled pick-up-sticks and Parchesi.

Orange crate kitchens with empty butter boxes kindled domestic fantasy on the front porch.

Sailor kewpie doll
on the garage shelf
inspired a neighborhood circus with fat lady and door prizes.

Cardboard box of old clothes performed impromptu plays, created fancy ladies
in satin, chiffon, and high heels.

Tents built of blankets in backyards became camping under the stars in the Sierras or protection from fierce desert winds.

A vacant lot became a Saturday matinee western,
the frame of a new house a maze,
a tall pine a jungle gym to climb.

Storybook dolls led to storybook dreams, seashells to distant seashores, father's magic tricks to illusionary realms

Amusement was invented

Little Things Matter

By Roy Coon

Looking back it seems kind of funny
How people operated without any money.
The historians call it the great depression.
To a child's desires it meant repression.

But did you ever know the joy you could bring
By saving the biggest ball of string?
Or how easy your appetite could be fed
By spreading sugar over butter and bread?

Or when your health was under attack
You used a hanky made from a sack.
The men who had work were part of a group.
CCC or WPA or other alphabet soup

When things got really glum
A man would leave home, become a bum.
But then we were promised a chicken in every pot
Better than nothing but still not a lot

A car in every garage
For the time seemed only a mirage
Now most people have two or three.
Times have gotten better you see.

As fortunes increased men would arrive
At a point where a Mercedes they'd drive.
Men whose fathers the rails had ridden
Inside large estates now are hidden

Rags to riches is the theme
Making it big, the American dream.
But is owning it all, having everything
As much fun as a big ball of string?

On Using Space

By Bessie Linvill

My space is a wild sunset coloring sky, sea, me.
Maybe I could wear silver sequins and dance the mirror sunset on the beach, flashing red-gold and green fire down to the black sea.

Murphy House to get a big lift beginning a long career that was a major factor in establishing Carmel character. Murphy built the house in 1904 for his mother and sisters. He was 17 years old. Over the next 40 years or so he was Carmel's primary builder. His business once entailed building 70 percent of the homes in Carmel.

Murphy was known as a hard worker, who gave good value for the money and whose work was known for its quality. He often designed both the commercial and residential buildings he constructed.

Any list of the well-known buildings in town includes a good number of "Murphy's." Most of the Pine Inn, the old Highlands Inn, the Harrison Memorial Library and adjoining buildings, parts of La Playa, the Criley mansion of Carmel Highlands, the main house at Rancho San Carlos and Los Robles Lodge in Carmel Valley were all constructed by him.

THE SAVE the First Murphy group formed after Stella and Joseph Biason last year purchased the property the house is located on and filed for a demolition permit. The Biasons want to demolish or remove the house to build additional retail space.

They have donated the house, which is behind the former Emil Norman Gallery on Mission Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, to the Save the First Murphy Group. It has been used as a storage shed for years.

In Feb. 6, the city council suspended the demolition permit to give the group the time to raise the money to move the house, but the suspension was only as long as it took the Biasons' application to go through planning.

The house is in need of extensive restoration, including rebuilding the original hipped roof. That roof was removed some years ago.

The house will be fenced off until the restoration can take place. The Save the First Murphy Group is responsible for the restoration, though the city is technically responsible as long as it is on city property and is city owned.

"There is a certain amount of public trust and a certain amount of public risk," Grace said, responding to a question by Barney Laiolo, who had asked if the city owned the house, was it also responsible for restoring it?

Laiolo told the council that it had bypassed its own general plan "by declaring it something you want to preserve — not that I don't want it preserved."

Preservation is strictly on a voluntary basis according to the general plan.

Antonia Verleye also questioned the restoration.

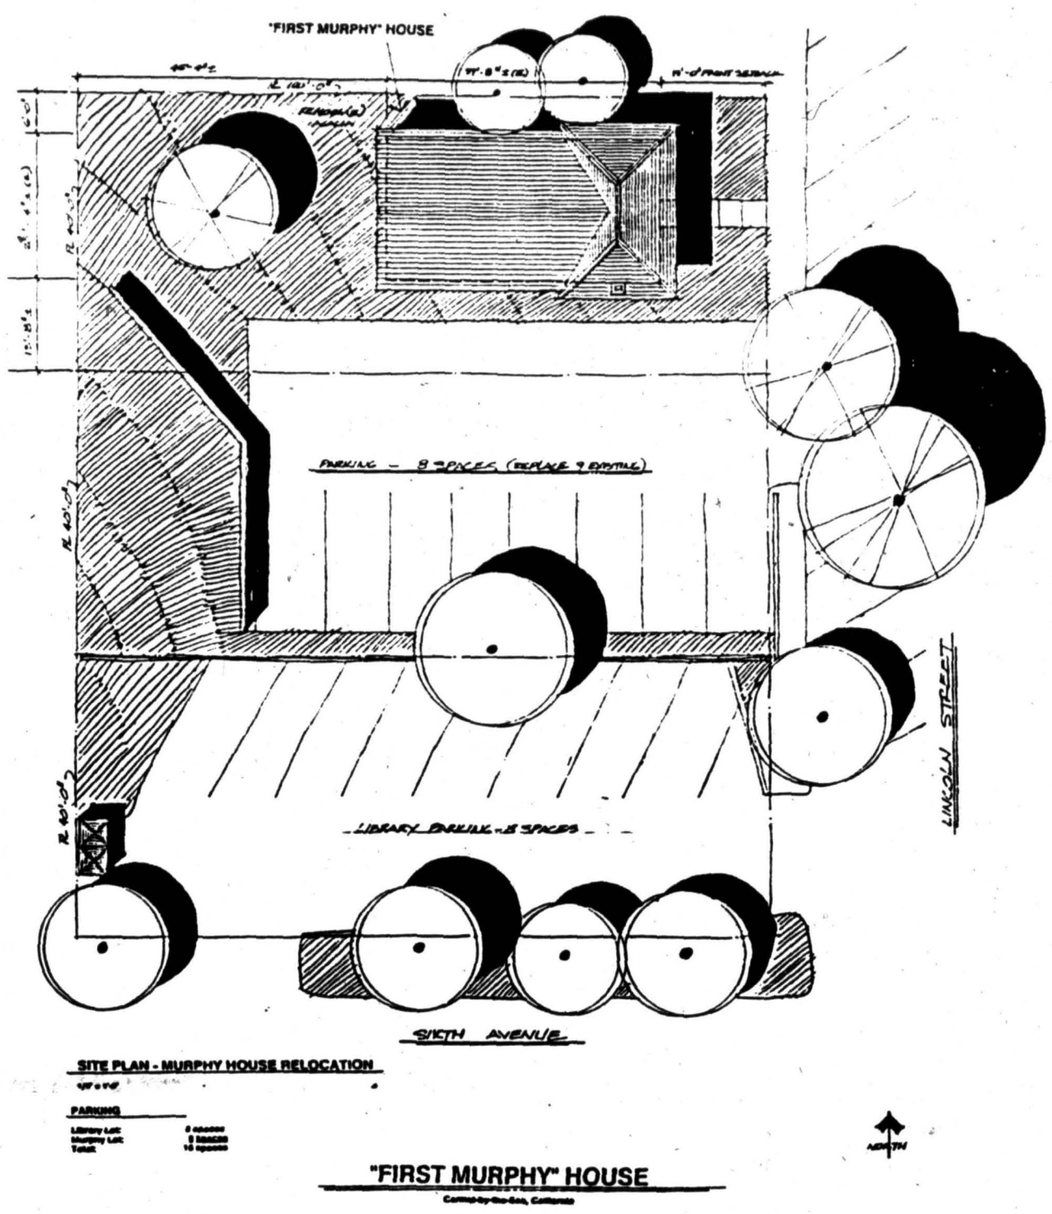
"I wonder how long are the citizens of Carmel going to have to pass by a structure in disrepair and sitting on blocks?" she asked.

Brian Congeleton, representing the First Murphy group, said that they planned to have it completed in nine to 12 months.

'There is a certain amount of public trust and a certain amount of public risk.'
— Jean Grace

The restoration time depends on what use the structure will have, he addded.

Currently, there is a plan to turn the house into a "clubhouse" where citizens can gather to play chess or other games, converse and in general socialize.



SITE PLAN for the relocation of the First Murphy House on the corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue, currently the site of two city-owned parking lots. The move is scheduled to be made June 28.

Season Finale

THIS SATURDAY ends the season for the lower baseball divisions (Pinto, Mustang, Bronco), and softball. The day will include a barbecue at Larson Field at 2 p.m., with closing ceremonies at 3:30 p.m. The ceremonies, expected to last about an hour, will include announcement of the All-Star teams and award of home run certificates and trophies to division winners.

Something new is in the works — summer baseball! Fliers about this low-key, fun program will be distributed on Closing Day; contact Dick McGonigal for more information.

MAJOR SOFTBALL: Bugaboo downed the Fort Ord Panthers 18-13 on June 5. Jennifer Rosenthal went 4-for-4; Bridget Bohnen (3-for-4), tripled twice; Merri Bushle, Amy Lincoln and Claire Huntington (3-for-4), doubled. Batting 2-for-3 were Barbara Herbert and Kimi Wagstaff, while Lincoln and Allison Bohnen had two hits apiece.

In what may have been the game of the season (featuring a triple play!), a contest between Carmel's two Major teams, was decided when the Clambox "Gas House Gang" edged the Bugaboo Bears in a 5-4 cliffhanger on June 6. Illona Simon earned the win with an outstanding pitching effort. In a terrific triple play, Rosie Crivello (B) caught a line drive at third, tagged the runner and threw to first. Teammate Claire Huntington picked off a batter at first with a strong throw from left field. Meka Dokes led the Gas House defensive machine with spectacular catch in center and a rifle throw to nail a Bear at the plate, and hit 2-for-3 with 3 RBI. Featured hitters: C's Megan Martine (triple), Vicki Phillips (double), Kealoha Seltzer, and Erin Murray; B's Crivello (double), Jenny Forlizzo, Allison and Bridget Bohnen, and Amy Lincoln. The win pushed the Clambox record to 9-2.

As reported by Coach Stadille, the Gas House Gang completed its sweep of arch-rival Bugaboo with surgical precision on June 7. Led by "Dizzy" Simon, the Gang's running, sliding, slashing and aggressive play thoroughly dominated the Bears, who, despite being handily swept, did win social honors with a beautiful buffet table the day before and elegant music the day of the game. Rosie Crivello led B's defense while Erin "Cranefly" Murray, Kealoha "Ducky" Seltzer, Veronica "Captain" Kirk-Clausen and Malia "Mac" Seltzer did the defensive job for the Clambox. Megan "Gator" Martine hit 3-for-3 and scored twice; "Muscles" Dokes and Simon hit twice; Vicky "Lefty" Phillips was 3-for-4 with 2 runs scored.

MINOR SOFTBALL: The Phillies took on the Fort Ord Cream Puffs June 2 and, well, creamed them! Jody Lincoln, Jamille Briss and Thaya Saxby combined to hold Fort Ord to only one run. Garnering hits were Jennifer Donnelly, Mary Greco, Shelby Lincoln, Lindsay Morris, Jamie Dorey, Quincy Struve, Allison Dougherty, Tony Greco and the above-mentioned pitching trio.

The Sandpipers took on the Phillies June 6 and beat them 12-3. Jennifer Hahl and Andra Faverty had multiple hits; Hahl, Patty Boyd, Kasey Cox and Bridgette Herbert doubled for the winners. Herbert provided hot pitching, striking out 10; teammate Rebekah Sellers, at shortstop, played tough defense.

ROOKIE SOFTBALL: The Maple Leaves topped the Bay Bashers 7-4 on June 4. Arielle Baker doubled and made an awesome double play; Cameron Cox and Page Petersen provided great pitching for the win, while Shannon McNamara and Krista Clark backed them up with excellent performances behind the plate.

On June 8, the Maple Leaves lost 11-9 to Fort Ord. Arielle Baker hit 3-for-3 with a well-earned triple; Kiera McNamara was also 3-for-3.

PINTO: The top hitters on June 4 when Brown-Spaulding played the Bullets were Bob Stoddard (with 2 homers and a triple!), Aber Oyler and Ray Delorimier (B); Tasha Roos and Ricky Ehrenberg (BS0. Brendan Kinion, Justin McChesney-Wachs and Clayton Morgan (B); and Jakob Hendrix, Aaron Campbell, Robby Wellington and Matthew Kocker were star fielders that day.

On June 5, Carmel Bay Co. played Pinto Power. Leading hitters: Brett Gesicki, Jeff Stutzman (CBC); Brett Pallastrini, Corey Wood, Mandy Moran, Brent Fogg and Joey Goldman (PP). CBC's Ian Cooney was hot at all positions; teammates Travis Moran, Taylor Schnitz and Cassie August also played good defense. PP's Mandy Moran, Jared Mast, Jennifer Yee, Steven Knovick and Trey Luster also took fielding honors.

June 6, Med Market vs, Fourtane's: MM's Joey Carr nailed a grand slam; Michael Gasperson homered; Katy Smith and Kyle Evans doubled. F's Chris Canepa doubled; Anthony Kamm, Joseph Goldman, Mark Flowers contributed solid hits. Defensive skill was shown by Keith Kitaji (F) and MM's Keith Sames and Jez Munyer.

Pinto Power met Valley Auto on June 7. VA's Ross Saroyan hit a home run. PP's Diego Scott smashed a single to the fence; VA's Robin MacMillan and Kareem Khalidy and PP's Brent Fogg had 2 RBI each. PP's Mandy Moran showed a good glove in the field.

JJ's Shoes faced Brown-Spaulding June 8. JJ's Kris Bonifas homered. Strong hitters were Austen Suchan and Mary Nichols (JJ); Tasha Roos, Joey Sells and Ben Borofka (BS). Roos also made a good play at second. JJ's fielders made many great throws to first. Glove honors to David Blagg and Nick Russo and Aaron Campbell (BS).

Fourtane's and the Bullets took to the field on June 9. Hans Lee (F) had a terrific hit; Tommy George doubled twice.

Meghan Healy joined a B's hitting force of Brendan Kinion and Justin McChesney-Wachs (2 RBI double). Infield talent was shown by Anthony Kamm (F) and Ray DeLorimier (B), while F's Chris Canepa and B's Amanda Phillips made great catches in the field.

Med Market played Carmel Bay Co. June 9. MM's Michael Gasperson ripped one over the fence; Ryan Tate and Keith Sames had RBIs. Margaret Thomas, Brett Gesicki and Matt Berry had heavy hits for CBC. Fielders of note: Ryan Eldridge, Kenan Kunstal (double play), Joey Carr, CBC's Ian Cooney and Taylor Schmitz.

Top hitters in the June 9, Pinto Power vs. Brown-Spaulding game: Ben Borofka, Ricky Ehrenberg and Brent Fogg. PP's Pat and Brett Pallastrini made sharp throws in from the field; Tasha Roos and Robby Wellington showed skill for BS. Special thanks to Brian Langslet for being bat boy for Pinto Power!

MUSTANG: June 5, County Mounties defeated Carmel Realtors 14-7. Chris Cook, in his pitching debut, joined Trent Nishiguchi and Zach Downing for the win, and batted 2-for-3 with an RBI. Downing hit 3-for-3; Mike Cohen was 2-for-3 with a double. Nick Campbell nailed a solid hit for CR; teammate Bhajan Johnson drove in a run, as did CM's Jake Patalsky.

On the Beach topped Brown-Spaulding 5-3 on June 6, despite a Keith Moon home run, and tough pitching by Sasha Vorobiov (with 3 consecutive strike-outs). Guy Hawes (BS) doubled; Adam Newhouse added an RBI. Adam Struve (triple, RBI), Erik Langslet (double, 2 RBI) and Andrew Armanasco (double) led OTB's winning offense. Armanasco and Seth Perkins made super catches in the field; while pitcher Derek Rinderknecht mowed down 3 in a row in the last inning.

Carmel Realtors faced Copies by the Sea June 9 and won 10-8. Zach Freedman doubled twice for the winners; Elliot Byrd also doubled, and Danie Akkad and Sadie Thomas contributed more hits. CS' Matt Borek and Erik Danielson doubled; Danielson was noted for good fielding.

BRONCO: Carmel Valley Disposal beat Derek Rayne 11-1 on June 5. Leading hitters: CVD's Brian Christensen (home run, 3-for-4); Adam Zerbe (2-for-3); Robbie Newman (2-for-2, double); and DR's Chris Langslet. DR's Kris Pallastrini earned an RBI.

On June 6, the Express downed La Playa 11-7. Matthew Allen (3-for-4, 3 RBI) and Amir Masliyah (2-for-4, double) led the winners' hitting; LP's Gary Briant hit 2-for-4. Dylan Pappas was robbed of a home run at the fence and pitched the last three innings to nail down the win; Morgan Rogers completed a double play in the bottom of the 7th with the bases loaded to stop LP's rally.

Derek Rayne defeated Vessey's 7-5 June 9. V's Chris Purdy nailed a hot line drive; Michael Yee and Ben Armbrust (with 2 hard-hit doubles), batted 2-for-3. DR's top hitters were Dylan Tescher (double), Chris Langslet and Michaela Hill.

Pine Inn hung on to second place June 9 with a 14-11 win over a tough-playing La Playa squad. Kaith Agha (2-for-3) twice sent 2-run homers soaring over the left field fence; Ryan Roos added 2 runs with a ground-rule double; Tommy Gerken (double), Joe Silverie (2-for-4, RBI), and Lisa Walgenbach rounded out PI's offense. LP's shortstop Russell Chaplan arrested a smoking line drive and batted 2-for-4; Barrie Wise doubled in two runs; Kevin Witherall hit 3-for-5 and doubled; and David Keeble (RBI) and Chris Edwards had sharp hits.

The Express overcame Carmel Valley Disposal with an 8-5 win on June 9. CVD's Brent Sullivan (2 doubles, 3 RBI), and Adam Zerbe went 2-for-3; Amir Masliyah (E) hit a ground rule double.

Bronco standings as of June 10: Express, 11-3; Pine Inn, 9-5; Derek Rayne, 8-5-1; CVD, 8-6; La Playa, 3-10; Vessey's, 2-12.

PONY: The Tigers defeated the Red Sox 2-1 on June 4. Pitcher Joey Bernhard earned the win; teammates Paul Huntington, Lance Kitagawa and Kyle Nichols combined on a double play, while Toby Lauterbach doubled twice (2-for-3). Javier Silva (RS) was hot at second base.

Evi Plata batted 2-for-3 for the Mets on June 5, but the Seaside Sox emerged with a 6-3 win.

Also June 5, the Padres beat Seaside/Castroville, rallying in the 7th to win 8-7. Leading hitters: Aaron Hodge (2-for-3, double, 2 RBI), and Keet Beck-Brattin (2-for-4, 2 doubles, RBI). Chris Watkins and Evan Tyler (who earned the win in relief), pitched well. The game featured a great defensive play at second by Oliver Pappas.

June 6, the Carmel A's beat the P.G. Yankees 9-8. Dustin Hagai (4-for-4, 2 doubles) stole 3 bases and shared the mound with Justin Garza. Andy Lieberman was 2-for-4. Matt Cramer, Garza and Gianni Aliotti combined on a hot relay play in the final inning.

The Red Sox crushed the Marina Phillies 21-0 on June 9. The Sox played errorless defense and nailed 17 hits. Jaime Cosseboom, Gary Grewell and Jon Vessey combined to pitch a one-hitter.

The A's beat Seaside/Castroville 7-0 on June 9. Dustin Nagai and Justin Garza threw a 3-hitter with 10 strikeouts. Gianni Aliotti (2-for-3, double) and Garza (2-for-2, double) were leading hitters; Nagai stole 3 bases, for a season total of 29.

The Mets beat the PG Angels June 9, 9-4. Ben Thompson homered twice, one in-park and one over the fence, and hit 3-for-4 with 4 RBI. Evi Plata hit 2-for-4. Jeremy Byrd was winning pitcher with 6 strong innings and contributed a double as well.

The PG Angels took an 18-10 win over the Tigers on June 9. Toby Lauterbach (2-for-3, 2 RBI), Lance Kitagawa (2-for-3), Josh Bonifas (2-for-2), Kyle Nichols (1-for-2) and Paul Huntington (double) led the Tigers' hitting.

REC LEAGUE SOCKO

By Pat Lenz

The longest season

THE LONGEST Socko season ever ended its regular season this week, with everyone looking ahead to this week's playoffs. In a season that saw six new teams in the league, a change of league supervisor, contract holdouts, owner's lockouts, a gambling scandal, numerous injuries, and quite a few disappearing players, the season was still quite entertaining.

Highlights from the season included the Energizers beating the Sports Barn in week one for the Sports Barn's only loss of the season; the Carmel Youth Center team scoring 22 runs in one inning for a new league record; The Sports Barn beating the Defenders in extra innings in the best game of the season; Jack London's recording a triple play in a game, then tying the Sports Barn late in the season to knock them out of first place. The Defenders continued their mastery of the Energizers, giving them their only defeat of the season. But the Energizers finished the season as champs, beating out the Sports Barn by a half a game.

Bells Cools Jacks: Bells Bombers 13, Jack Londons 7.

In the only close game of the day, Bells played solid ball throughout the game to finish a very successful season.

Defenders Crush Sade's: D.C. Defenders 34, Sade's Slammers 3.

The Defenders got prepared for the playoffs by taking batting practice against Sade's. Nine runs in the second and third innings started the win early.

Barn Racks Racquetball: Sports Barn 24, G.R.A.C. Pots 7.

The 14-run first inning by the Sports Barn is all you need to know about this game as the Sports Barn prepared for the playoffs.

Standings

Team	Win-Loss-Tie
Energizers	9-1-0
Sports Barn	8-1-1
D.C. Defenders	8-2-0
Bully III	8-2-0
Bells Bombers	7-3-0
C.R.A.P.S.	4-6-0
Sade's	4-6-0
Jack London's	3-6-1
C.Y.C. Sharks	3-7-0
Myers Painting	2-8-0
G.R.A.C. Pots	2-8-0

News notes:

Street painting by city crews will continue

THROUGH JULY 20 the Carmel Public Works Department will be performing street-painting operations throughout the city.

Work will be done from 3 a.m. to 11 a.m. Monday through Friday. Drivers are requested to remain alert during these times since city workers will be working in the middle of streets and detours will be frequently changed. Some parking restrictions may also be in effect.

Any questions or problems should be addressed to the Carmel Public Works Department at 624-3543.

Warning issued on fireworks

BEWARE, DANGEROUS fireworks will soon be showing up in neighborhoods, warns Bob Taylor, Ranger Unit chief, San Benito-Monterey Ranger Unit of the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (CDF).

These fireworks are sold out of pickups, over the fence or between friends. When used they go bang, shoot balls of fire or fly high in the air, said Taylor. Unfortunately, they are very attractive to youngsters and some adults and are very dangerous when used.

Once launched no one can predict where a firework rocket will land. Many roofs of homes fall victim to these rockets each summer in California. Hands are maimed and eyes are blinded by these exploding fireworks. It is because of these dangers this type of firework is illegal in California, said Taylor.

"Users of these fireworks make themselves inescapably liable for damage to persons or property," he said. "We ask that persons seeing these fireworks being sold report the information to the Sheriff's Office or to CDF."

Fire danger remains high

DESPITE A respectable rainfall last week, fire danger remains very high and disastrous fire could occur at any time in our area warns Bob Taylor, Ranger Unit chief of the San Benito-Monterey ranger Unit of the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (CDF).

Now is the time to clear flammable vegetation from around buildings and especially homes; clear back at least 30 feet, said Taylor.

"Without this cleared area, firefighters will face a near impossible task protecting your home from a wildfire," said Taylor. "With the cleared area they have a fighting chance of protecting your valuables. That's why the cleared area, 30 feet, is known as a defensible space. Get your defensible space in place; protect your home."

We need you.

PADRE CORNER

By Emily Rubin

Past, present, and future

EIGHTEEN YEARS ago, the members of this year's senior class of Carmel High School walked their first steps. Now, as the Class of 1990 receives their high school diplomas we look back on these years and remember the events that shaped their lives.

From 1972 to 1974, the years of the members of the Class of '90 were just beginning, yet for President Richard Nixon his years of political power were ending. The Watergate scandal, which led to Nixon's resignation on Aug. 9, 1974, placed a scar on the integrity of American politics.

Upon Nixon's resignation in 1974, Gerald Ford succeeded to the Presidency. His administration saw the end of the Vietnam War, a war which spanned almost two decades.

These years also marked the beginning of an era, the era of computers. In the early '70s, there were only approximately 75,000 computers in the United States. Now, computers are becoming household appliances, the numbers rising every year. In the '90s it will be very difficult to find a job without knowledge of computer skills.

As Jimmy Carter took over the Presidency in 1977, we saw the Space Shuttle Enterprise make its first manned flight and the New York Yankees win the World Series beating the Los Angeles Dodgers four games to two. We also saw the beginning of the Star Wars' trilogy, with the movie Star Wars, and the end of the King of Rock 'n Roll, Elvis Presley, in that same year.

When President Reagan took the oath of office in 1981, the level of fighting in Lebanon was very high. In addition to this conflict, the rebellions in Nicaragua, El Salvador, and Grenada also became a major concern for the Reagan administration. Reagan's success in handling these pressures won him the Republican nomination and eventually reelection in 1984.

In 1985, Lebanese terrorists captured a TWA jetliner in Athens, taking 39 U.S. citizens as hostages. The hijackers demanded the release of 735 Lebanese prisoners in Israel, however Reagan was able to work out an agreement freeing the U.S. hostages within 17 days.

In 1986, the year this year's graduating class entered high school, the world grieved for the loss of the seven crew members who died in the Space Shuttle Challenger accident. It was also the year that Ray Knight's homer won the World Series for the New York Mets, and Ivan Lendl won the U.S. Open in tennis.

President Bush's inauguration in 1989 came during a year that changed the world forever. It was a year that millions demanded change and chanted for "freedom." Some call 1989 "The Year of the Protestor," where more change was achieved without war than in any other year in this century.

We watched the Berlin Wall crumble, the democracy movement in China rise in Tiananmen Square, Poland hold the East Bloc's first free election, and countries such as Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, and Czechoslovakia turn towards democracy. We watched a world come together politically in a movement towards world peace and what some feel is an end to "The Cold War."

As a member of the Class of 1990, I can only hope for the best as we prepare to take on the challenges of this changing world. We have seen the world progress at an amazing rate throughout the past 18 years, and it will require tremendous energy to make an impact in the future.

Tomorrow, Carmel High School will present the graduating Class of 1990 at 4 p.m. on Bardarson Field.

Hatton Canyon wheelchair hike set

Senior citizens, disabled persons and all who are interested are invited to join a wheelchair hike through Hatton Canyon in Carmel.

The hike will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 23, and is sponsored by the Sierra Club in cooperation with Cal-Trans.

Emergency access will be made available during this hike. Persons needing wheelchairs, canes or other assistance are encouraged to join. The hike is less than two miles round-trip. Bring lunch or a snack to enjoy.

The group will meet at the mouth of Hatton Canyon, on Carmel Valley Road between Highway 1 and the Carmel Rancho Boulevard stoplight. For details, call 624-3921.

New doctors in town

THE HUSBAND-and-wife chiropractic team of Patricia Wolff and Wilson E. Smith have taken over the Carmel Valley Chiropractic Clinic in the village for founder Dr. Marvin Goldstein, who has taken a leave of absence to travel with his wife, Carissa Chappelet.

Wolff, who is also a licensed counselor, became interested in the relationship between mental and physical well-being several years ago, and attended Los Angeles College of Chiropractic.

Smith earned a doctorate from Cornell University and later attended Cleveland Chiropractic College.

After their marriage in 1983, the doctors worked with the California Medial Group in Santa Monica, a multidisciplinary group of healers that, in addition to themselves, included a medical doctor, gynecologist, acupuncturist and homeopathic physician.

Wolff's current practice focuses on family health care with an emphasis on women's and children's health issues. She continues to be deeply interested in the relationship between physical health and emotional well-being, stress-related disorders, nutrition and life style, applied kinesiology and homeopathic medicine.

Smith specializes in applied kinesiology, a technique that utilizes the body's muscular and neurologic reflex systems to analyze a patient's structural or biochemical health probelms.

Branching out... Gemologist and manager of La Reine Fine Jewelry, Bedros Agacanyan, has joined Caldwell Banker Residential Real Estate's Monterey office.

Local makes good... That would be Carmel Valley resident Mario Beretti, who has been named director of food and beverage for the Monterey Sheraton.

Beretti was associated with the Del Monte Hyatt for 13 years, leaving there in 1984 to open his own restaurant on Cannery Row.

A native of Modena, Italy, he attended hotel schools in Italy and Switzerland and worked throughout Europe, Mexico City and Acapulco, and for Princess Cruises.

Before moving to the area in 1971, he served as maitre'd at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

Prior to accepting his position at the Sheraton Monterey, Beretti was associated with the Canyon Hotel and Marquis Hotel in Palm Springs and Solvang Sheraton.

New to you... Hawley-Hacker Antiques, carrying high-quality merchandise from worldwide, with an emphasis on Oriental antiques, has opened its doors.

The boutique is owned by Sue Hacker and Hildegunn Hawley, who have lived and travelled extensively abroad.

Also, Laurel Burch has opened Laureland, a magical new shop for children, underneath her Laurel Burch Gallerie at Monte Verde and Ocean.

And there's more...

Leathers by the Sea, located on Dolores Street south of Seventh, has planned its grand opening for 6 p.m. Saturday, June 16.

Owned by Shaila Kirchoff and noted leather craftsman John Michael, Leathers by the Sea carries men's and women's sportswear, outerwear and provides custom work.

Leather is imported from Italy, Spain and France and is manufactured by John Michael Inc. in Los Angeles.

Gas station honored... Carmel Cheveron Service has been honored by the AAA for its 25 years of dedicated service to the area's motoring public.

Owner George Giem received a plaque from Gordon Nathan, manager of AAA's emergency service department at a special dinner honoring his family.

The station denotes 25 years of holding an official AAA service contract.

Deal nixed... Plans to sell Carmel Valley Ranch to American International Golf Resorts, Inc. for $60 million have fallen apart.

It is still unclear what happened to the sale, which would have generated about $28 million for Landmark Land Co., the parent company for the resort.

Salmon Brothers Inc. will continue to aggressively market the property.

Another one bites the dust... Clothilda Booth, a fixture on Ocean Avenue for the past 35 years, 15 of those at Clo of Carmel, is closing up shop.

Operating on a "day-to-day" basis, Booth has put all of her merchandise (bracelets, necklaces and such), on sale for 50 percent off — fixtures also must go.

She adds that she has no ill feelings toward her sister-in-law, Jean Mitchell, who owns the building at Ocean and Dolores.

It seems that Mitchell has big plans for the building and did not ask Clo if she wanted to pay more rent, just leave.

Booth is unsure of her plans, but indicates that she will dabble in painting and real estate until she retires in three or four years.

Medicare supplement

WHAT'S HAPPENING To Medicare Supplement Rates?

In the last few weeks I have received several calls regarding rate increases on Medicare Supplement Plans. I have also been asked, "What should I do now?"

First, I would like to clarify the changes in rates and why your rate is most likely to go up. So far I have seen the rate for Blue Shield plans go up 50 percent, Pioneer Life about 30 percent, and United American, 26 percent. In Maine, the rates for Blue Cross/Blue Shield have gone up 57 percent. Actually, "the Blues" asked for a 77 percent rate increase but were limited by the Department of Insurance to the 57 percent.

Now we can come to the question — why? To understand the change we must go back to the Medicare Catastrophic Act. This act required only one deductible per year for hospital admission. When the act was repealed it went back to the original requirement that separate admissions could be subject to a deductible under certain conditions. Thus, the insurance company is now responsible for paying for these potential several admissions.

Second, even if the act was not repealed, the initial deductible went up from $560 to $592, or 5.7 percent increase, which the insurance company would have passed on to the policyholder.

Third, again even if the act was not repealed, medical costs have increased so that an increase in the premium would have been necessary. Thus, the total of these three factors created the increase. The variance between companies would be based on each individual company's experience with its block of business.

The policyholder of a current plan wonders if he or she should purchase a new plan from another company. There are some caveats here: 1) if your health is poor you will have to wait for a new pre-existing condition waiting period; 2) You also may not be qualified to obtain a new policy because of your health; 3) the policy you have may be the best plan in the marketplace, so why change? and 4) the plan you have may have certain features that fit your needs.

You may have an eager agent wanting you to change. In some cases it may be worth it, but in other cases it may only be to the benefit of the agent to get a new commission. If you have any doubt, check with HICAP at 646-4636, or write to this column.

Don't be dead certain you're too young to have a heart attack.

Last year 105,000 Americans under age 65 died of heart attacks. In fact, 45 percent of all heart attacks happen to people younger than 65. If you're old enough to be concerned about heart disease, be wise enough to take the steps recommended by the American Heart Association to reduce your risk. Don't smoke. Reduce the fat and cholesterol in your diet. And control high blood pressure. Act now. Because it's never too early to start taking care of yourself.

CALIFORNIA SEEMS to be setting the style for American cuisine. And, I wouldn't be surprised if the Central Coast is leading the way. We all have known for some time that the Monterey Peninsula is populated with people with a passion for the intrigue of fine dining.

The MP Chapter of the International Wine and Food Society has been dining together for decades and now there's a brand new organization: The Monterey Bay Chapter of The American Institute of Wine and Food has been formed.

This not-for-profit group was founded in 1981 by Julia Child, Robert Mondavi, Richard Graff and others to advance the understanding, appreciation and quality of food and wine through its chapters, publications and programs.

Gary Ibsen, a member of the national AIWF board, started organizing a local chapter only 14 weeks ago. The inaugural festivities for the new chapter welcomed around 200 members and six founding members.

The first event was a luncheon at Highlands Inn with Ms. Child as honored guest. Then followed a formal founder's dinner at Carmel Valley Ranch Resort. David Fink, host for the Highlands Inn event, was the first to sign up for the local chapter. David welcomed guests and introduced Richard Graff, national chairman emeritus, who stated the objectives of AIWF.

"To improve the quality of food and wine for all Americans. EIPPR, though unpronounceable, sums it up," he said. "E for education, I for information, Ps for publishing and preservation and R for research. Another goal is to include studies of wine and food in the university curriculums."

Ms. Child said, "I am very impressed with Gary Ibsen's program and find this group one of the most vigorous chapters in the organization." Adding, "At present we have 6,000 members nationwide and want to bring that total up to 15,000. And, I am very pleased with the two AIWF publications because people can write the truth about food and wines and refocus nutritional directions of what we consume." She wants to quit all this nutritional nonsense and get back to real food (rah, rah).

Ms. Child also envisions a Food and Wine Museum just as we have art museums, etc. Food is basic, so why not? In France, you usually find a section of French wine labels in art musuems, and, even right here the MP Museum of Art has a private label wine with artistic labels on the bottles.

Before the luncheon, Petrossian caviar from Russia and oysters from Chile were offered at a reception in the Fireside Room. The lunch was unusual, light, delicious and perfect. Roasted Beet Fettucini (cut with a Japanese machine), with Wild Mushrooms and Asparagus, followed by Monterey Bay Salmon topping a Minestrone of fresh vegetables prepared by executive chef Brian Whitmer and lastly, a trio of miniature spring desserts by patissier Bruno Feldeisen.

It was also unusual to serve a red wine with salmon, Pino Noir Reserve 1983 Chalone. But, Gloria Dake's logic was "the robust vegetables needed a red wine." And, the marriage seemed just right.

Gary Ibsen thanked Judith Sharp Wright and Dory Urcis for co-chairing the event and reminded everyone that this is an open organization that welcomes everyone. Professionals, non-pros, fishermen, food providers, people who like gracious living, those who wish to preserve the slow, leisurely enjoyment of dining.

A lavish reception was held in the beautiful flowering gardens of the Carmel Valley Ranch Resort before the black tie Founders Dinner. Thirty-six food fanciers were seated at tables centered with two and a half-foot vases filled with long-stemmed roses and carnations that decorated but did not obstruct conversational views. (Ever notice how dressing in fancy gowns and black tie seems conducive to leisurely dining?)

Members and founders were welcomed by host Cal Jepson (of the CV Ranch Resort), Julia Child, David Strada (executive director of AIWF), and Gary Ibsen. Mr. Strada told of national plans for trips to France, perhaps Portugal, and a conference on gastronomy next January-February in Santa Barbara.

Mr. Ibsen wants to develop scholarship and apprentice programs and to work out an exchange of chefs between countries.

Founding members of the MB Chapter of AIWF are Virginia Barrett, CV Ranch Resort, Highlands Inn, Douglas H. McKellar of Louisville, Ky. and Pebble Beach, Dory Urcis and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wright.

Specially designed plates revealed the menus at each table. Executive chef Peter D'Andrea pleased the diners with Chilled Pheasant Foie Gras Quenelles, Angel Hair Pasta and Monterey Bay Calamari, Campari/Mint Sorbet, Breast of Squab, Carmel Valley Greens with Marbier and Stilton Cheese and lastly, Mango and Seasonal Berries with sauterne, coffee and petit fours.

Filling out a full two-day calendar, Julia Child attended a private dinner in the Big Sur home of Jim Josoff and William Ernest Brown to celebrate Jim's ??th birthday. As he blew out the four candles Jim said, "I've been 39 so many times this is a turning point."

The nice thing about closeknit groups is if one couple can't complete a task, another fills in and so on. That's what happened with the dinner for the Wine & Food Society of the MP. First, Fred and Pauline Stanley were planning the June gathering and arranged the location — The DoubleTree Hotel.

They liked the view from the BrassTree Lounge for the reception and Peter B's On-The-Alley would be ideal for the dinner. Then travel plans interfered and the Dirk van der Burchs and the Jack Kenastons took over. Next, Dirk and Car flew off to Egypt for three weeks so the Kenastons carried on with menu decisions and other details.

The stunning view from the BrassTree encompasses the wharfs, the boats and the bay. In other words — Old Monterey. The dinner theme followed this view — "An Old Monterey Dinner."

On behalf of the society, President Dirk van der Burch received "The Order of the Oar" presented by DoubleTree general manager Randy A. Kwasniewski. "The Order" was initiated in 1978 when the hotel opened with the idea that oars be given to honor community leaders and outstanding organizations. Paying silent tribute, the polished sculling oars hang in stately rows at Peter B's.

Executive chef Carl Ashurst and his staff of eight received kudos and applause from society members and guests at the end of a fine "Old Monterey Dinner." With the chosen theme two menu ideas came to mind — fish or wild game. As wild

JULIE AND Morton Levitt, Richard Graff and Morton's sister Bernice Levitt-Greenberg of New York, attended the American Institute of Wine & Food's inaugural reception at Highlands Inn.

ROBERT BUSSINGER, Stephanie Snuggs and Reto Tarriani attended the AIWF luncheon at Highlands Inn.

DORY URCIS, Robert Nunes and Linda Sweeney enjoyed champagne at the AIWF reception in the Fireside Room at Highlands Inn.

GARY IBSEN, Peter D'Andrea and Bruce Silverblatt awaited Julia Child's reaction as she tasted hors d'oeuvres in the kitchen of CV Ranch Resort (where Peter reigns supreme). (Christopher Hulse photos.)

DAVID FINK, Toni Jepson, and Dennis and Anne Mills admired the Doris Ewing design on the dinner plates at Carmel Valley Ranch Resort dinner for AIWF.

boar might be considered too fat in this health-conscious age, roasted pork was creatively stuffed with venison and topped with rich Burgundy Truffle Sauce.

For the beginning Consomme Royal with Spinach Flan and Crayfish Encroute were outstanding. Key Lime Sorbet and Baby Field Greens with Orange Champagne Dressing completed the main courses. Fresh black cherries arrived just in time for the superb Black Cherry Crepe.

Sommelier Myron B. McFarland, Jr. wore a badge bestowed on him by Dr. William Snell, who had received it from Charles Ritz of the famous Ritz Hotel family. All wines served were released in the popular wine year of 1988.

It was obvious that a mutual admiration society quickly developed between Robert Collins (food and beverage manager), Carl Ashurst, Randy and the reps from the W & F Society. It ended with a successful reception and dinner with white-gloved service performed with efficiency and friendliness.

The evening ended in song — Happy Birthday — to member Sue Dewar and a look at the Stanton Center model in the DoubleTree Lobby.

Not only do our beautiful peninsulans like to dine indoors, but they also like to so al fresco. The inspired board of the Forest Theater Guild proved that with a summer "preview party." Food and beverages were offered among the swaying pines along with tours backstage and entertainment onstage.

Cole Weston (VP of the guild), David Rupert and Peter Magee, are the directors of the summer season and were featured speakers. Cole, a veteran of 40 years of directing and acting at the Forest, was at the helm for the opening show Long Day's Journey Into Night. He said, "My cast isn't performing tonight because they don't want to make people cry at a social event." He spoke of plans for a Steinbeck Festival in 1991. Perhaps doing Camelot, Of Mice and Men, and Pipe Dream.

Peter Magee is a native of Carmel who has acted and directed in New York, Chicago and Seattle. His production of The Merry Wives of Windsor debuts July 4th and David Rupert's Fiddler On The Roof opens a month later. What a season! No wonder the guild is excited about it.

The spread of food was decorated by Linda Williams, who blended vases and arrangements with the surrounding trees with her assistant Sylvia Lovell-Cooper, costumer for Merry Wives. The leads from Fiddler, Teyve and Golda, sang Do You Love Me?

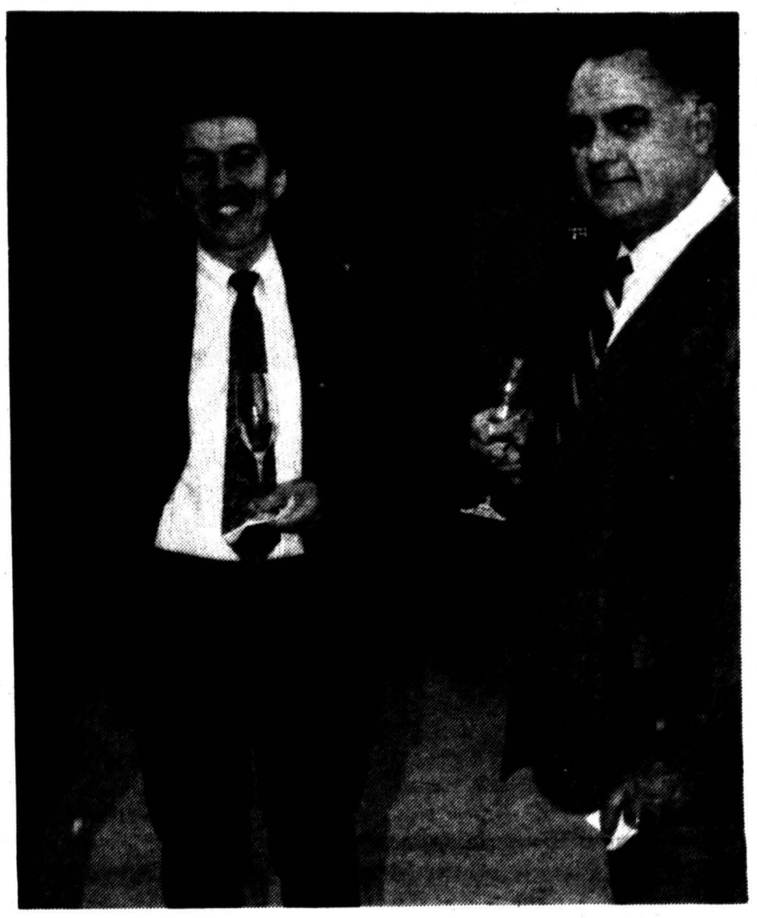
Peter Newman, guild president, welcomed members and guests and said the books are always open for new members. Stephanie Snuggs, who is planning a guild auction in Pebble Beach in October, said she has $30,000 worth of art, antiques, jewelry, etc. already. Who knows how much she will have by October.

Seventeen Forest Theater apprentices will be on staff for the 1990 season. Selected students will receive instruction from some of the area's best theater technicians and designers as they focus their work on Merry Wives and Fiddler.

THE BEAUTIFUL flower garden at Carmel Valley Ranch Resort brought smiles to the faces of AIWF members Gary Ibsen, Dory Urcis, Judith Sharp Wright and host Cal Jepson.

GABY AND Nicky Hahn joined Bridgett Hildebrand in the garden of CV Ranch Resort during AIWF reception.

A LINEUP of handsome attendee at the formal inaugural dinner for the newly formed chapter of AIWF: Dr. Edward Dalton, John Chadwell (Inn at Spanish Bay), John de Canha (Plaza Hotel), and Dennis Mills (Highlands Inn).



THE OLD House Restaurant's executive chef, Emile Labrousse and its owner David Edgerton attended the AIWF reception.

FUTURITES. If you believe in networking, as the Professional Women's Network does, you are welcome to attend the next PWN meeting 6:45 June 19, Crossroads Community Room. Ripple Huth, a communications specialist speaks on "Capturing Butterflies" (conquering speech anxiety).

Hidden Valley summer concerts feature oboe virtuoso John Mack, June 20; Ransom Wilson, flutist, with pianist Lisa Emenheiser on June 29; and Ali Ryerson, jazz flute, teams up with Belgium's Charles Loos at the piano July 4th. The Salmon BBQ at 5:30 on July 4th preceeds the concert. Concert tickets at the door.

Our indigenous blues music seeps deeper into our souls each time we hear it. For the fifth time the Monterey Bay Blues Festival comes to the Monterey Fairgrounds bringing the best of the blues for all of us. For two full days June 23 and 24 the top artists and bands will appear on Pattee Arena Stage with additional performances on the Philip Morris Garden Stage just outside the arena.

The Blues Festival fills in the local world of music that includes Dixieland, Jazz, Mozart, and Bach. It is genre of its own with extremely wide appeal. Proven blues greats will be featured! Terry Hanck & The Soul Rockers, Clarence Carter, Denice LaSalle, Albert King, Bobby Reed, Ernie Johnson, Charlie Musselwhite and Little Milton. You may buy tickets at the gate during festival weekend or call the office, 394-2652.

Don't forget the really big Monterey Concours d'Elegance and classic car auction this weekend at the fairgrounds. Peggy Comptom is heading the hospitality for the fifth year and the concours has grown by leaps and bounds. While the Pebble Concours is limited to 100 cars. the Monterey Concours has more than 130 entries. It furnishes a panorama of transportation history, from carriages, antique bikes, motorbikes, and cars, cars, cars. Dad would love it if you bought him a classic car on His Day.

These tourists are for the birds

RESIDENTS OF one Carmel Point area are not ambivalent about certain tourists who make an annual visit to their neighborhood: they can't wait for them to leave.

These particular tourists don't create parking problems, but on the other hand, neither do they spend money in Carmel shops. They are the night herons that nest each spring in the grove of eucalyptus trees at Ocean View and Stewart Way. The residents of that area call them night squawkers. It's an accurate description, for in the very early hours of the morning they emit sounds one local resident described as "like the squawk of a person being choked to death."

During the day, according to Peterson's Field Guide, they sit "hunched and inactive." Gathering strength, no doubt, for their next vocal assault on their long-suffering neighbors.

YOU WOULD think that after 10 years in Carmel I would know how to dress for special occasions, but no. An invitation to a "garden party" at Tor House brought visions of long skirts, frilly blouses, perhaps even a hat. So off I went in all of the above except the hat (not having one).

Well, I was conspicuous. Almost everyone else was in slacks, warm sweaters and shoes appropriate for rock climbing, or so it seemed. Of course! It was blustery and my outfit was hardly apprpriate for climbing beyond the first landing in the tower. Mayor Jean Grace was not taking sides — she wore a more practical version of my outfit, presumably having been up in the tower before. Newest city councilmember Barbara Brooks was lovely in a long-skirted blue dress and hat. Well, she had a reason: she sang several favorite ballads for the guests. What a lovely, mellow voice she has!

ON A recent TV program the town of Laughlin, Nev. was described as "a boom town" and "an undiscovered little gambling town by the river."

Undiscovered? Not according to Joyce Farris, formerly the desk sergeant and voice of the Carmel Police Department. The latest word from Laughlin: Joyce has moved from our local department of 31 officers to a job in which she will have 59 fellow employees. Specifically, as a member of the security department at the new Flamingo Hilton Laughlin — a casino and 2,000-room hotel. ("Little" gambling town?) Joyce sounds happy, even excited, about the August opening of the hotel. And about her new surroundings.

SPLENDID SENIOR:

Margaret Aitkenhead describes herself as "a very private person." A pity. As we talked, I glimpsed an even more exciting life than this active senior wanted to talk about. Nevertheless she surely qualified as a splendid senior if only (but not only), because of her philosophy of life and her attitude about aging.

Peggy refuses to use age as a reason for being lazy or inactive. Instead, she goes to the maximum of her strength without trying to turn back the clock. "I refuse to be limited by age," she told me. How old is this trim, quick-moving woman. She wouldn't say, exactly. "I'm over 50 and not yet 100." With a mischievous smile: "I've been a senior for a long time."

Busy these days, she said she has been busy all her life — as part of a big family, working through college, holding a variety of jobs, always studying and always following world affairs closely.

Born in Ohio, Peggy attended Oberlin College, then graduated from the University of Wisconsin with a music major. At a time when only seven or eight women were ham radio operators in this country, she earned her license. She taught Morse code for the Navy, worked as a secretary and program assistant for a radio station and played piano in dance bands. In World War II she worked in the USO with wounded sailors in San Diego. Coming to the Monterey Peninsula at the end of the war, she lived in a cottage in Carmel, worked in banks and local hotels and began giving piano lessons. A number of her early pupils were the children of hotel workers.

Peggy moved to Del Mesa Carmel when the first phase of that complex was finished. Her present activities mirror all the activity of her yonger years: teaching piano; volunteering with the Community Hospital Auxiliary and behind the scenes for the Bach Festival; membership in the local symphony and chamber music organizations; screening potential blood donors for the Bloodmobile; traveling; a daily exercise class; hiking — a least a mile every day.

As Peggy was telling me all this, I was enjoying the view from her living room: the forest stretching out below the deck and a variety of birds coming and going. Two things we talked about elicited a special sparkle from her eyes: music and nature. "I grew up on a farm," she said, "and that started my love for nature." Her favorite local scenes include the Old Coast Road, nearby fire towers in the hills, and — especially — Big Sur. A copy of John Woolfenden's book about Big Sur is on the coffee table; it is inscribed to Peggy and is well-worn.

Inside, the spacious living room accommodates both an organ and a piano. But they do not dominate the room. All is in proportion here as it seems to be in Peggy's life: music, the many pictures of nature scenes, and that view of "her" forest. Just recently, she gave a solo piano recital in this room for friends. She refers to music as livelihood, pleasure and rehabilitation, the latter after hand and wrist problems slowed her up, but only temporarily.

If Peggy shows any impatience with anything in her present life, it is with seniors who give in to age, allowing it to set limits for them. But she is realistic: "It's harder as you get older; everything is more difficult and more expensive. But you should have developed a great deal that helps you to meet these problems."

She meets them head on. Without children of her own, she has "lots of other people's children," including many nieces and nephews whom she enjoys. Since her mother died she has been traveling by herself, mostly in this country now. "There is still so much to see." She is excited about the Big Sur Land Trust's recent acquisition of property and is looking forward to hiking in to have lunch at the log cabins there.

"I will always study," she adds. "People who forget things usually are the ones who have least to remember." I suggested that she should write a book about her life — the things she talked about and the things she has wanted to keep to herself. Peggy laughed, "A book about my life would have too many chapters!"

Margaret Aitkenhead insisted that she was not an especially interesting person. But she belied her own words when she said, as I was leaving after a thoroughly entertaining hour with this spirited woman: "I don't judge people by their years or want them to judge me by mine. Judge me by what I do, what I know, what I am."

Today's splendid senior.

NARFE TO MEET JUNE 18

The National Association of Retired Federal Employees (NARFE), Chapter 579, will meet on Monday, June 18, at 1:30 p.m. at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center.

Sam Karas, Monterey County supervisor, will speak on topics of current interest to seniors, including county programs. He will also provide information on the Fort Ord Task Force in which he played a prominent role.

Federal employees, retired federal employees and guests are invited. Dessert and coffee will be served following the business meeting and program.

EXOTIC SEA ANIMALS TOPIC OF WAVES MEETING

The "Beachwatch" volunteer group was started in the peninsula area by Esta Lee Albright of Monterey. She will be the guest speaker at the Sea Otter WAVES Unit meeting at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, June 16 at the Ramada Inn.

In the early 1960s Albright was one of the first women underwater divers. As a student of marine biology with an avid interest in ocean life, she became a member of the Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Cetacean Society which had been founded in 1980 by Mary Rodriguez and other local marine specialists.

In 1981, Albright became particularly concerned with the care of seven dolphins who were stranded on the Central Coast with no specified group available to help them. Realizing that there must be a way to render aid to all mammals, Albright evolved a plan to use volunteers as trained liason helpers to the stranded and ill animals, as they were discovered and reported. Training was set-up with the SPCA Wildlife Center and the staff of the California Marine Mammal Center. She became editor of the newsletter Soundings which enabled beachwatch volunteers to be appraised of Cetacean programs and activites. Subsequently, she edited a manual for the volunteers as aid to their beachwatch information and training.

The Sea Otter Unit is a member of the WAVES National and open to every retired, active duty or former member of the WAVES, Coast Guard, or Marines. Everyone interested is invited to attend the meeting, which will start at 11:30, with business followed by lunch; Albright's presentation will follow. Information may be obtained from Jewel Dube, 384-7445 in Marina.

Flying like an Eagle

LARS LINDGREN received the Eagle Scout Award from the Boy Scouts of America June 10 at the Scout House in Carmel. To attain the award he completed 12 skill awards, 39 merit badges, and held many troop offices, including Senior Patrol Leader. In addition, his Eagle Scout Project involved renovating the playground for the Hilltop Day Care Center in Seaside and collecting toys for children. Andrew Wilson served as emcee, with Rev. Charles Anker performing the invocation. Assemblyman Sam Farr presented him with a state flag, Republican liaison John Olow a resolution from the state Assembly, and Scoutmaster Mike Lewis presented him with the Eagle Award. Lingren's parents, Jim and Joyce Lindgren also received recognition pins and Conard Lindgren, an Eagle Scout from Troop 3 in 1983 and Lars' brother, conferred the Eagle charge. Letters of congratulations came from President George Bush, Gov. George Deukmejian, Rep. Leon Panetta and the 49ers' Joe Montana. An honor student at Carmel High, Lindgren has played in the varsity basketball and football teams, served as ASB athletic commissioner and won the Jim Kelsey Award. Scholarships he has earned include the Greg Scott Memorial, the National Football Hall of Fame Award, Church of the Wayfarer Scholarshipe and the Monterey County Republican Scholarship. A senior at Carmel High, he will attend UC Davis in the fall and major in biological sciences.

She still has a place in her heart for Nepal

Kolisch was a 23-year-old special education teacher in Oregon in 1973 when she joined that wandering tribe of young.

She set off with with Mark Garrett, her future husband, not for Tibet, but for Brazil, via the around-the-world circuit. After trouble in getting documents in Amsterdam, they set out in an old Mercedes van and ended up in Afghanistan.

"It was so oppressive in Muslim countries, but because I lived there and Afghanistan was the least oppressive of those countries I didn't even notice until we got to India. I felt this great weight lifting off of me there," she said.

To get to India, they drove through Pakistan, traveling through very barren, deserted country where tribal forces that did not recognize the Pakistan government occasionaly robbed and killed travelers. Once, they came across stones that had been rolled into the roads. They jumped out and rolled them off as quickly as the could but they could see submachine gun-armed bandits hidden behind bushes.

"For some reason they didn't attack us," she said.

After India, Kolisch said that when she crossed the border into Nepal, "it was like a breath of fresh air. I literally breathed a sigh of relief."

'I'm very glad for all my experiences. They have made a huge difference in may life. I learned a lot from the Nepalese people.'

"I JUST had instinctual feeling of being home," Kolisch said.

Later, she found that it was because there were fewer people and that the Nepalese were very accepting; as long as you are not hurting anyone, they leave you alone. The Nepalese are not goal-oriented but people-oriented, an attitude that was as "easy as pie for me to slip into," she said.

"They also have a good sense of humor," she said. "They just don't hassle you."

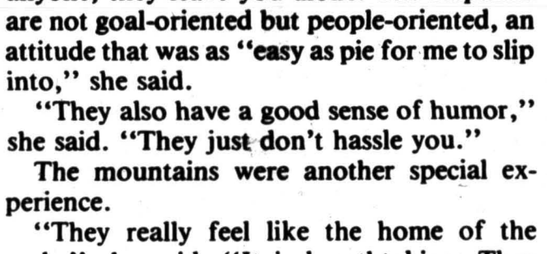
The mountains were another special experience.

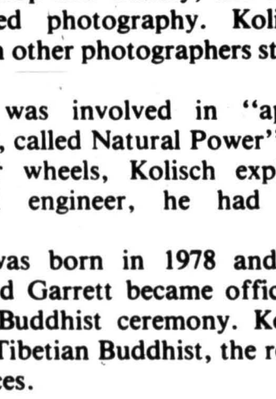
"They really feel like the home of the gods," she said. "It is breathtaking. They always rejuvenated me."

Kolisch and Garrett settled down in Katmandu, the capital of Nepal. There, she opened a shop of wood block prints, called the Print Shop and Gallery, and after many years added photography. Kolisch, and about seven other photographers still show in the shop.

Garrett was involved in "appropriate technology, called Natural Power" and built mini-power wheels, Kolisch explained. A mechanical engineer, he had his own workshop.

Bodhi was born in 1978 and in 1980, Kolisch and Garrett became officially married in a Buddhist ceremony. Kolisch had become a Tibetian Buddhist, the religion she still practices.





BATHING RITES in the Bagnati River, the holy river of Nepal which runs into the Ganges. (Christine Kolisch photo.)

A GIRL from Leh Ladakh (Little Tibet). Although Ladakhis are primarily Buddhist, there is a strong Muslim influence. (Christine Kolisch photo.)

In 1983, tragedy struck. Garrett was killed when taking some friends to a trekking drop-off point when the truck went over the cliff. While the others were injured, he was the only one killed.

Kolisch stayed two more years then decided it was time to return to America.

"It was time for a change, and to be closer to my family. I also wanted Bodhi to have the experience of living in America," she said.

After she arrived, she met Lovell. They fell in love and in 1988, they were married. Currently, they collaborate on multimedia slide shows about Asia, and have given shows on Nepal, Tibet, Ladakh and Rajistan. They also work on photojournalism projects, including calendars, articles and books.

"I learned that you can carry your 'Himalayan high' whereever you go. It is an attitude, a state of mind. I hope that can continue to practice with me one of the great lessons I learned in Asia — patience — and apply it to my life in America," Kolisch said. "I'm very glad for all my experiences. They have made a huge difference in may life. I learned a lot from the Nepalese people."

Kolisch learned another lesson in Asia that is hard for Americans to understand. It is the first lesson in Buddhism — life is suffering. That does not mean being morose or sad all the time, she explained, but understanding that the pain and sorrow experienced by living creaures is a part of the whole that combines with joy and happiness create a complete experience.

"If you accept that, you will have a full life," she said.

Champions honored

MEMBERS OF Carmel High School's championship baseball team were honored by the Carmel City Council for their accomplishments not only this year, but in past years. The Padres have been Mission Trail Athletic League champs for thw last four years; Central Coast Section champs in 1979 and 1989; champs of the Salinas Easter Tournament the last two years; and have the Most Valuable Player chosen from its ranks the last two years. The 1990 team had a 10-2 league record (19-4 overall), and were ranked fourth in the state. Six members of the 1990 team were selected to the All-MTAL team: Augie Acuna, Tyril Sherman, Chris Prieto, Scott Smith, Rick Prieto, and Lance Scott (1990 MTAL MVP). Team members also showed their academic abilities with an overall B average, with 10 of the team named to the school's honor roll. On hand at the council meeting to accept the plaque from Mayor Jean Grace were (left to right): coach Duke Quinones, Frank Melicia, Lance Scott, Steve Watts, Chad Christiansen, David Bernhard, Andy Rotharmel, and Mark Fanderl. AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION FORMS MONTEREY PENINSULA BRANCH

John Gibbons, chairman of the American Heart Association's Central Mission Trails Chapter, has announced the formation of a Monterey Peninsula branch. James R. Valentine, executive director of The Park Lane, A Classic Residence by Hyatt in Monterey, will serve as the branch's president.

With the branch's operational year beginning on July 1st, Valentine is looking forward to getting underway: "Dedication and hard work by each of the board members and the many volunteers will make this a successful inaugural year."

The Central Mission Trails Chapter has charged the Monterey Peninsula branch with sponsoring peninsula-wide educational programs and fund-raising activities to combat cardiovascular disease.

"Our primary focus will be on education and prevention. We're targeting young people by helping them to develop a diet and exercise regimen that will minimize the risk of cardiovascular disease," said Valentine. The branch is hoping to bring 4,000 new grade school students and their teachers into the American Heart Association program this year.

This will also be the first year that local efforts will include reaching out to junior high school students and their teachers. Local fund-raising events will include: a celebrity waiter dinner, Flowers Straight from the Heart, Jump Rope for Heart, a business campaign, and tele-pledge campaigns.

Principal's Guests

Kiwanis Winners

THE CARMEL BY THE SEA Kiwanis awarded scholarships to Carmel High School seniors Bliss Simon and Hans Hess at a luncheon on June 7 at the Pine Inn. Kiwanian Merrily Scott introduced Simon, who is attending Somona State and Hess, whose hands-on studies of computers at the Naval Postgraduate School this year prepared him for upcoming classes at Cal Poly in the fall. Preident Gary Ritter presented a check for $500 and a plaque from the Kiwanis for their achievements. Keynote speaker Anne McPherson addressed the group on the Hospice of Monterey, presenting a site plan of the new location and several renderings of the 30,000 square-foot facility. Located on a 6.5-acre plateau overlooking Monterey, McPherson described the "pristine forest setting" and efforts to preserve the trees and provide a tranquil atmosphere: "We want to stay away from anything that looks like an institution...so there will be lots of glass and light, with pastel colors for a harmonious feeling. The new facility will feature 28 rooms with private baths, including four rooms dedicated to pediatric care. Ground-breaking is slated for summer 1991.

THE MONTEREY Chapter of the National Charity League recently held a recognition luncheon to honor a group of girls in grades seven to 12, who with their mothers, put in more than 1,000 hours assisting local philanthropies. Senior girls recognized include (front row, left to right), Erica Lewis, Alicia Reed, Shannon Hart (back row), Natalie Taggert, Annabelle Webb, and Becky Dilks. Four girls were recognized as contributing the most hours Dilks and Webb, Chelsea Haga and Paige Downey. The newly formed chapter of the league is made up of mothers and daughters who work together or individually for a number of local charities to assist them on a continual basis or when a large event calls for extra hands. The girls also begin training this summer to work at the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

MIIS STUDENTS PLACE IN REGIONAL COMPETITIONS

Two teams of Monterey Institute of International Studies students have placed second and third respectively in rigorous regional student competitions.

Second place in the 1990 Model League of Arab States competition was awarded to the institute team of Rym Ben Saidane, Patty Shawish, Leah Titerence, Victor Fernandez, Christine Ramirez, Allison Fritts, Laurie Leinow and Jane Delay. In addition, four team members were singled out for Awards of Distinction.

The institute group participated in a West Coast Model League of Arab States meeting during which students presented factual information for debate in such areas as: political, economic, social, cultural and Palestinian affairs during plenary and committee sessions. Students research national positions by contact with area specialists, embassy briefings and through library sources. The institute delegation represented Tunisia.

Held at Mills College, Oakland, the competition involved delegations from nine schools, including Stanford, U.C. Berkeley, University of San Francisco and California State at Sacramento with teams representing 12 countries.

Third-place winners in the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce Business Plan competition were cynthia Roe, Anne Thompson, Tone Skjold-Larsen, Kevin Battin and Siska Hallemeesch.

Thirty plans from 11 San Francisco Bay Area schools were considered covering the entire busienss concept and implementation strategy for either a start-up venture or an expansion of an exiting business.

The institute team submitted a plan conducted for a Belgian company planning to export a digital voice storage and retrieval system for emergency or financial institution use.

The group received $1,000 and individual plaques for their efforts at a breakfast award program at the St. Francis Hotel, in San Francisco.

DENTAL SOCIETY INSTALLS OFFICERS

Dr. Kevin G. Landon, a Monterey dentist, was recently installed as the president of the Monterey Bay Dental Society. The event was held at Carmel Valley Golf & Country Club. He assumed the position from Dr. Christopher C. Keys of Santa Cruz.

Landon, a 1974 graduate of UCLA School of Dentistry, has been a partner in the Monterey Peninsula Dental group for 15 years and is currently the consultant in forensic dentistry to the Monterey County Sheriff-Coroner and the District Attorney's office. Landon also served at the chairman of the Dental Identification Team for the 1987 PSA air disaster.

The Monterey Bay Dental Society is the local component of the California and Americ;an Dental Associations. The society has 325 member dentists from Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties.

Also installed were Dr. Leon Cooper (Salinas) as president-elect, Dr. Mark Joiner (Santa Cruz) vice-president, Dr. William Hall (Salinas) secretary/treasurer, and Dr. Ray Hansen (Salinas) state trustee. The county directors are Dr. Gary Klugman (Salinas), Dr. David Simonsen (Pacific Grove), and Dr. Harry Rasmussen (Santa Cruz).

Dr. Marc Grossman, a pediatric dentist practicing in Freedom, was selected as Dentist of the Year for 1989 for his outstanding contributions to the field of dentistry.

OBITUARIES

Arch Balchin

Cremation and Memorial services took place May 14 in Roseburg, Ore., for Art Balchin, a former Monterey County Supervisor and Pacific Grove councilman, who died May 14 at his home in Roseburg. He was 102.

Born in England on April 7, 1888, Mr. Balchin came as a young man to visit his sister in Berkeley. While there, he met and later married Blanche Jensen.

The Balchins celebrated their 75th wedding anniversary on April 20.

Mr. Balchin, a longtime Pacific Grove resident, came to the Peninsula as an employee of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. He retired as district manager of PG&E in 1953 but remained active in its employees' association.

Mr. Balchin was elected a Pacific Grove city councilman and later a Monterey County supervisor in the 1950s.

He was a former president of the Visiting Nurse Association and served on the boards of trustees of the Asilomar Operating Corp. and Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

He was an active member and licensed lay reader at St. Mary's by-the-Sea Episcopal Church in Pacific Grove and was a member of Pacific Grove Lodge 331, F&AM. He assisted in the building of the lodge's present facilities.

An active Mason, Mr. Balchin served as worshipful master in 1940 and was inspector of the 392nd Masonic District for many years.

He was also marshal of the Grand Lodge of California Masons in the early 1950s and was president of the Masonic High 12 Club in 1961.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Balchin is survived by a daughter, Beverley Randol of Roseburg; seven grandchildren; and 16 great-grandchildren.

Dorothy Holliday

Graveside services and burial took place May 18 at El Carmelo Cemetery, for Dorothy Mae Holliday, a retired secretary, who died May 15 at her home in Carmel. She was 62.

Mrs. Holliday, born Jan. 22, 1928, in Coalinga, had lived in Carmel for 26 years.

She worked as a secretary for more than 45 years until 1989.

Mrs. Holliday was a member of the American Association of Retired Persons, Northern California Golf Association and the Monterey Bay Aquarium. She was also a member of the Pacific Women's Golf Association and served as secretary of the association.

She is survived by two sons, Lawrence of Carmel and David of El Paso, Texas; two brothers, Eugene Jensen of Fresno and George Jensen of Santa Rosa; and a sister, Louise Hawkins of Caliente.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Lee Allen Morrison

Lee Allen Morrison of Carmel, died May 16 at the Hospice of the Central Coast He was 65.

Born Aug. 9, 1924, in Los Angeles, Mr. Morrison had lived in Carmel for 33 years.

He was self-employed as a stock trader for most of his adult life. He attended Pomona and Claremont colleges and served with the Navy during World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Brenda of Carmel; two sons, Kevin of Long Beach and Christopher of Tiburon; two daughters, Daren Engel of Tampa, Fla., and Wendy Morrison of Ozark, Ala.; mother, Lucile Morrison of Arcadia; three brothers, Wayland of Arcadia, Richard of Huntington Beach and Keith of Tiburon; sister, Patricia Myers of La Canada; and three grandchildren.

At his request, no services took place.

Family members request that any memorial contributions be sent to the Hospice of the Central Coast.

Frederick S. Hulse

Private memorial services were scheduled to take place for Frederick S. Hulse of Pebble Beach, a retired university professor, who died May 16 at his home. He was 84.

Born Feb. 11, 1906, in New York City, he graduated with a bachelor of arts degree and a doctorate from Harvard University. He taught anthropology at several universities, mainly the University of Washington from 1947 to 1958 and University of Arizona from 1958 to 1976, when he retired.

Dr. Hulse had lived in Pebble Beach for the past eight years, moving here from Tucson, Ariz. He was a member of the American Civil Liberties Union, the National Academy of Sciences and many other professional organizations.

He was past editor of the American Journal of Physical Anthropology and past president of the American Association of Physical Anthropologists. He also was the author of articles and books, including the university text, "The Human Species," which was translated into several different languages.

He is survived by two sons, Christopher of Pacific Grove and Richard of Eugene, Ore., and four grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the World Wildlife Federation.

Alice G. Ellis

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, followed by scattering of ashes at Sea, for Alice G. Ellis of Pacific Grove, a homemaker and political activist, who died May 18 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 82.

Born Aug. 20, 1907, in King City, Mo., she had lived in Monterey County for the past 40 years and was active in the Democratic Women's Club of Monterey County, the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula and Friends Outside of Monterey County.

Ms. Ells served several terms on the Monterey County Grand Jury and had served as a member of the Democratic State Central Committee, on the board of the Democratic Women's Club and as precinct chairman of the Monterey County Democratic Central Committee.

She is survived by a brother, Michael Gordon of Los Angeles, and a sister, Marge Heath of San Gabriel.

At her request, no services took place. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Contributions in her memory may be sent to the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula, the California Nature Conservancy, Interim Inc. or Friends Outside of Monterey County.

Sue M. Thompson

Private graveside services took place in Oakland, for Sue Marie Thompson of Pebble Beach, who died May 16 at Pacific Grove Convalescent Hospital. She was 95.

Born on Feb. 21, 1895, in Weeping Water, Neb., Mrs. Thompson had lived in Pebble Beach for the past 10 years. She previously resided in Omaha, Neb., Oakland and Lafayette.

Mrs. Thompson, a homemaker, was the last surviving member of the Rockwell family of 11 brothers and sisters.

She is survived by a daughter, Marilyn Joy Pearson of Pebble Beach, and a grandson.

The family prefers that any memorial contributions be sent to the donor's favorite charity.

Neva V. Little

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, for Neva Vernadene Little of Carmel, who died May 15 at the Del Monte Rest Home in Pacific Grove. She was 88.

Mrs. Little, a homemaker, was born on Oct. 17, 1901, in Chase, Kan. She had lived in Carmel since 1955, moving there from Stockton.

Her first husband, John C. Myers, died in 1946; her second husband, Leslie, died in 1973.

Mrs. Little is survived by two daughters, Normal Rekowski of Endwell, N.Y., and Marcella Pate of St. Clair Shores, Mich.;' a stepdaughter, Marian Hersche of El Paso, Texas; four stepsons, Robert of Carmel, Norman of Watsonville, Steven of Santa Barbara and George of Santa Cruz; 21 grandchildren; 28 great-grandchildren; and a great-great-grandson.

At her request, no services took place. Ashes were scattered at sea off Carmel.

The family prefers that any memorial contributions be sent to the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, P.O. Box HH, Monterey 93942, or to the donor's favorite charity.

Adele M. deLorme

Memorial services took place May 18 at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, for Adele M. deLorme of Carmel, who died May 12 at Driftwood Convalescent Hospital. She was 78.

Mrs. deLorme was born June 17, 1911, in New York City, and moved to Carmel from Ohio two months ago. She was a homemaker.

She was a member of the Cleveland Orchestra Auxiliary.

Survivors include her husband, Frederic; a daughter, Claire Dungan of Carmel; a sister, Mesha Burdian of Mansfield, Pa.; and three grandchildren.

Cremation took place under the direction of the Paul Mortuary.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be made to the Hospice of the Central Coast or to the American Cancer Society.

Frank L. Nelson

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, for Frank L. Nelson Jr. of Pebble Beach, a retired businessman, who died May 25 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 79.

Born April 15, 1911, in San Jose, he attended San Jose State University and lived in Los Gatos before moving to Pebble Beach 23 years ago.

He was the former owner of the Nelson Meat Co. and Nelson Cattle Co. in San Jose.

Mr. Nelson, who was known as Bud, was a member of Friendship Lodge 210, F&AM of San Jose, the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and the Carmel Foundation.

He is survived by his wife, Maxine; a son, Frank III of Monte Sereno; two sisters, Dorothy Bartlett and Thelma Marston, both of Santa Cruz; two granddaughters; and one great-granddaughter.

At his request, no services took place. Ashes were scattered at sea off Spanish Bay. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the donor's favorite charity.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

More than 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year, including the following:

- Tuesday and Thursday, June 12 and 14, 6 to 10 p.m.
- Saturday, July 21, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- Tuesday and Thursday, Aug. 14 and 16, 6 to 10 p.m.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Society shows Italian, French films

The Monterey Institute International Film Series will present A Joke of Destiny and Such a Gorgeous Kid Like Me.

Lina Wertmuller directed the 1985 "comedy antipasto, A Joke of Destiny. Ugo Tognazzi stars as an Italian minister of the interior who becomes trapped in his computerized, terrorist-proof limousine and is forced to take refuge in the garage of his arch-nemesis. It will be shown in Italian with subtitles, Friday through Sunday, June 15-17.

Francois Truffaut directed the Wednesday, June 20 film offering, Such a Gorgeous Kid Like Me. This black comedy focuses on a young sociologist who takes up the cause of a young woman jailed for the murder of her lover and proves her innocent, only to be thrown in jial himself for the murder of her husband. It will be shown in French with subtitles.

Both films begin 8:15 p.m. in the Morse Auditorium at the Monterey Institute of International Studies, 440 Van Buren St., Monterey. Admission is $4 general, $3 for students and senior citizens. For information, call 626-1730.

Faire recruits craftspeople, vendors

Applications for arts, crafts and food both spaces are now available for the 1990 Monterey Bay Arts and Crafts Faire, which will take place Saturday and Sunday, June 30 and July 1, at the Custom House Plaza, located between Fisherman's Wharf and the Doubletree Mall on the waterfront in downtown Monterey.

The faire will coincide with the opening weekend of the county's largest attended cultural event, the Monterey Bay TheatreFest. Admission-free events include Jack and the Beanstalk, The Emperor's New Clothes, The Human Chess Game, The Music Master, The Swaggering Soldier and The Forced Marriage, in addition to magician Roy Slater and juggler Chris Heimer.

The arts and crafts faire is open to all artistic mediums but is restricted to hand-made items with the artist present at the faire. No mass-produced items of any kind will be allowed. Deadline for entry is June 15.

Applications are now available and can be obtained by phoning the GroveMont Theater at 649-0340, Center Stage at 649-5561, or by writing Box 7174, Carmel, CA 93921.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

The political and ecomomic reforms in Eastern Europe are opening new frontiers for 81-year-old Emil Davidson, of Scarsdale, New York. He's eager for an assignment in that area as a veteran traveling expert of the non-profit International Executive Service Corps (IESC). When he retired 20 years ago from his plastics molding company, he volunteered his management know-how through IESC to help industries in developing countries. Since then he has shared his expertise in 12 projects in African and Asian countries. Now, Eastern European countries are looking for guidance from IESC people, and Davidson is ready to go.

Driver education courses pay off for older drivers, according to the California Department of Motor Vehicles. The agency reviewed records of 110,000 older drivers and found that those who had taken driver education courses had 16 percent fewer accidents resulting in injury or death than other drivers. California is among 29 states that require insurers to give discounts to drivers who complete such courses.

Setting the stage for Eugene O'Neill's classic

A LONG Day's Journey into Night, the autobiographical work that playwright Eugene O'Neill wanted withheld from the public until 25 years after his death, bows Thursday, June 14 in Carmel. Cole Weston, who last year directed O'Neill's Moon for the Misbegotten for the Forest Theater Guild, again assumes directorial duties.

This "play of old sorrow, written in tears and blood," is brought to life at the historic Outdoor Forest Theater. Weston's association with the theater goes back to 1948. He has served as performer, builder and director there.

Curtain is at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through Sundays until July 1. The acting ensemble consists of Rosemary Thompson as Mary, Alan Smith as James Tyrone, Craig Dunbar as Edmund, David Miller as Jamie and Lisa McKaney as Cathleen.

Although the firepits will be stoked nightly, remember to dress warmly for this outdoor production. Tickets are $10 general; $8 for senior citizens, children and the military. For details or reservations, call 649-5561 or 626-1681.

COLE WESTON, who last year directed Eugene O'Neill's Moon for the Misbegotten at the Outdoor Forest Theater, again takes on directorial chores for A Long Day's Journey into Night. Here the director guides Erin Wennerholm and Jill Lynch, supplying technical cues for lights and sound.

PROPERTIES MISTRESS Nancy Oppenhuiz instills order in the Tyrone household, constructed at the historic theater.

MUSIC CORNER

By Nathalie Plotkin

Mozart in Monterey opens with concert series

THE 1990 EDITION of the Mozart in Monterey Festival opened Saturday night in the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey. It was a chamber music recital distinguished by very high quality performances of two late works by the title composer.

A string quintet made up chiefly of musicians from the Sacramento Symphony gave a sterling account of themselves in the Mozart "Quintet in G Minor" K. 516. Violinists William Barbini and Kineko Okumura, violists Linda Alosco and Jim Een and cellist Lubomir Georgiev performed with aware sensitivity and beautifully coordinated ensemble. They brought the music to a full realization of its potential and in so doing, provided a rare treat for the audience.

In the first movement there was color and drama. The display of informed musicality shown in the interactions of the players, along with their communicative virtuosity, revealed the true depth of the score. The vitality and rhythmic emphasis of the Minuet, which here is definitely not dance music, had an orchestral ring and depth of tone. Nothing was held back, yet the playing had refinement and control.

The Adagio had an eloquence and spirit which brought out the endless beauty of the music. A second Adagio which introduces the Finale was lyrically expressive and the playing was first class. This led into a lighthearted Allegro which was solid-toned yet had rhythmic sparkle and verve. In all, a well-nigh flawless performance in every respect.

The Mozart "Adagio and Fugue," K. 546 was performed by violinists Barbini and Okumura, violist Alosco and cellist Georgiev. Here too the tone was rich and strong. The finely matched group gave the music its full due, particularly in the drive and bite they put into the fugue. There was clarity, vigor and excitement in the playing.

Oddly enough, Beethoven came off as a not too strong second in this concert. His "Piano Trio in B Flat Major" op. 97 (Archduke) did not fare well. A beautiful and magisterial work, it was flawed by poor instrumental balance and uncertain ensemble. Pianist Sally Christian, violinist Oleg Kovalenko and cellist Lubomir Georgiev were the protagonists and while Beethoven wrote a concerto-like piano part with additional input from the two strings, they make important contributions to the musical endeavor and entity. It was not a case of the piano overriding its collaborators, it was rather that the violin tone was tentative and lacked authority. But then, so did the ensemble.

There were fine moments in the performance, particularly in the Scherzo and Largo. Obvious effort was expended, but not enough to obliterate one's awareness that this can feel like a very long work. The tempos were deliberate and the overall approach needed more drive. It takes more than playing skill to make a viable musical ensemble. It takes time and a lot of rehearsing and in a festival setting where people are drawn from a variety of different places, these things are in short supply.

SUNDAY NIGHT'S continuation of Mozart in Monterey was a disappointment even though it began well and brightly with a set of four flute duets, expertly played by Paul Renzi and Nina Epperson.

An "Allegro and Minuet" by Beethoven were pure entertainment music, hardly within our expectations of this composer, but still very appealingly played. Three 20th century compositions were very intriguing. Petrassi's "Dialogo Angelico" was performed with strong tone and rhythmic acumen. Roger Nixon's "Duo for Flute and Alto Flute" was mellow and very palatable, while Wallingford Riegger's "Music for Two Flutes" with its jazzy idiom and inflections, was solidly projected by these two polished musicians.

Violinist Sherry Kloss and pianist Mark Westcott joined forces to play Castelnuovo-Tedesco's charming "Sea Murmers" and "Masks" from Romeo and Juliet by Prokofiev in transcriptions by Jascha Heifetz. These brief pieces were very pleasant and were played with stylistic distinction.

It was in the performance of the Grieg "Sonata for Violin and Piano" op. 45, no. 3, that my enjoyment began to fade. Miss Kloss attacked Grieg's highly romantic and emotional work brusquely, as if carrying over the approach and style which had been exactly right for Prokofiev's sardonic "Masks." It is fine to bite and scratch in modern music where it is often called for by the composer, but late 19th century music most often calls for velvet tone and singing phrasing. True there was drama, vivid colors and passionate emotion, but the violin tone was neither appealing nor appropriate. Westcott is a fine pianist who played with accuracy and feeling, holding up his part very well.

After the intermission, a quintet consisting of violinists Bernard Eichen and Roy Tanabe, violists Janet Lakatos and Vadim Mazo and cellist Daniel Rothmuller got together to play the Mozart "Quintet in C Major" k. 515. Unlike the Saturday group, these players, able as they obviously are, were not able to unite into a cohesive ensemble and bring out the real charm and beauty of this composition.

The quintet is deceptively difficult and even though it was traversed with spirit and wit, there was a sense of strain and a lack of finesse. It was more on the order of elevated sight-reading and too much teetered on the edge, particularly in entrances and intonation. Here was a case where apparent spontaneity and unaffected gaiety were not enough to create the necessary quality of performance the work warrants.

This coming weekend will feature three orchestral concerts. Friday night in King Hall, Leila Josefowicz will perform the Saint-Saens "Violin Concerto No. 3." Saturday night, orchestra members will be soloists in Mozart and Weber and Sunday night, pianist Jerome Lowenthal and violinist Stuart Canin will be heard in Mozart concertos. These concerts will take place in the Santa Catalina Performing Arts Center as will the Saturday afternoon piano recital by Jerome Lowenthal.

FATHER'S DAY WEEKEND

JUNE 15 - 16- 17th

A whole weekend for Dad
On Friday or Saturday treat dad to dinner and with our compliments, we'll surprise him with a Chocolate Decadence dessert and an after-dinner libation.
Pat Ireland will entertain him with his favorite songs.

On Sunday, bring dad to our Champagne Buffet Brunch, served from 11-2 or, enjoy our new Poolside Barbecue from 12-4. Sun, food and fun with the family. He'll like that! Or, bring him to dinner. Dessert and after-dinner libation is on us. Wouldn't that be a nice way to celebrate Dads Day?

ON STAGE

A Long Day's Journey into Night

Eugene O'Neill's "play of old sorrow, written in tears and blood," will be directed by Cole Weston and is the opening play in a summer of productions staged by the Forest Theater Guild at Carmel's Outdoor Forest Theater.

A Long Day's Journey into Night takes its cues from the author's own family. O'Neill requested that it be withheld from the public until 25 years after his death.

The Forest Theater Guild staging of this drama features Rosemary Thompson as Mary, Alan Smith as James, Craig Dunbar as Edmund, David Miller as Jamie and Lisa McKaney as Cathleen.

Curtain is at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through Sundays, June 14 through July 1. Tickets are $10 general, $8 for students, military and senior citizens.

The Outdoor Forest Theater is at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Be sure to dress warmly.

For additional information or reservations, call 626-1681 or 649-5561.

Little Shop of Horrors

Kicking off the summer season in the "Big Top Tent" at the Monterey Bay TheatreFest is the musical, Little Shop of Horrors. Howard Ashman and Alan Menken composed this love story about a man, a woman and a plant named Audrey II. Andrey II likes to eat people, sing and dance. A '60s "Girl Group" chorus adds to the fun.

A preview is set Thursday, June 14. Little Shop of Horrors formally opens at 8:30 p.m. Friday, June 15. The production, staged by the GroveMont and Fort Ord Cabaret theaters, is directed by Jim Sutty. It runs at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Sundays.

The tent is located in Monterey's historic Upper Custom House Plaza, located at the top of Fisherman's Wharf on the waterfront in Monterey.

Tickets are $10 general, $8 for students and seniors and, $5 for children under 12 and GroveMont Season Ticket Holders. For details, call 649-6852.

The Velveteen Rabbit

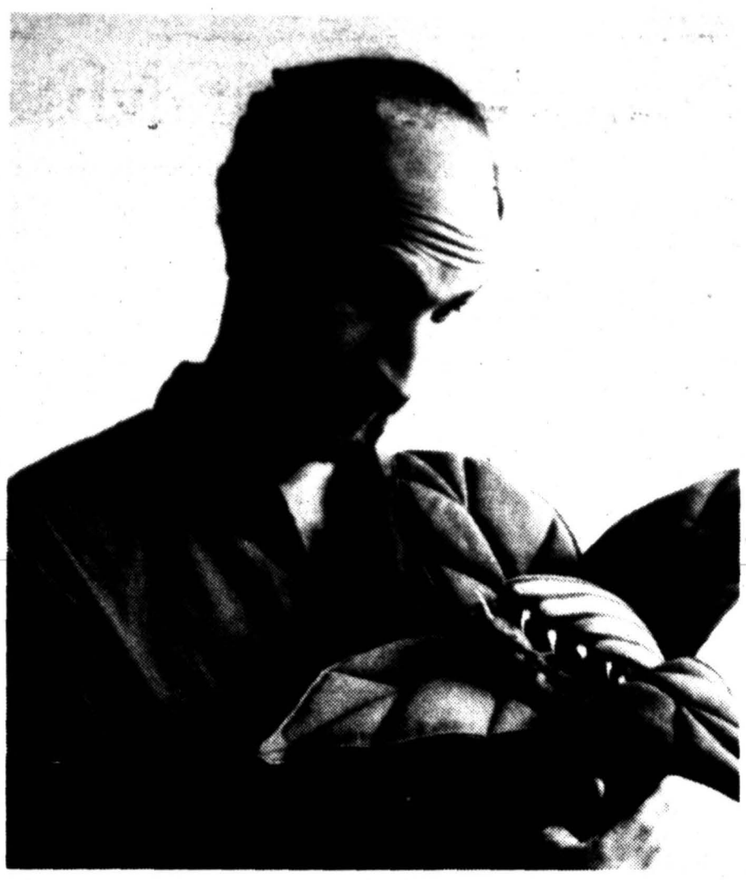
The Velveteen Rabbit, a children's musical based on the story by Margery Williams, opens Friday, June 15 in the SRO Theatre at Monterey Peninsula College.

Don Porter directs the production, which runs approximately one hour.

Curtain is at 7 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and also at 2 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays through July 1.

Tickets, at $4.50 each, may be reserved by calling the MPC box office, 646-4213, between 4 and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, or Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561, Tuesday through Saturday.

Parents are requested not to bring infants or toddlers to the performance.



Independent Audrey II

SEYMOUR (Mark Heckman) discovers that his new plant, "Audrey II," has a life of its own in Little Shop of Horrors.

The Western Stage at Hartnell College stages John Guare's award-winning comedy, The House of Blue Leaves.

The play focuses on Artie, a second-rate composer; his crazy wife Bananas; his mistress, Bunny; and a son who plots to blow up the Pope.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday, June 14.

The Studio Theater on the Hartnell College campus is the setting for The House of Blue Leaves.

Single tickets are $8.50 to $10.50, and season tickets are also available. For reservations, call 375-2111 or 649-5561.

Hartnell College is at 156 Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street), Salinas.

Picnic

The Western Stage has chosen William Inge's Pulitzer Prize-winning play, Picnic, to open its 1990 season. Tom Humphrey directs this play. Set in Kansas, Picnic tells of several women and the transformation they experience when a young, handsome itinerant finds his way to their neighborhood.

The Studio Theater on the Hartnell College campus is the setting for Picnic. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, June 15-16.

Single tickets are $8.50 to $10.50, and season tickets are also available. For reservations, call 375-2111 or 649-5561.

Hartnell College is at 156 Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street), Salinas.

A Fool's Paradise

There's arsenic, there's old lace, but in this classic English melodrama, it's an evil wife attempting to do in her wealthy husband because she loves another. Not to fear, "good" triumphs over evil in the end in A Fool's Paradise.

This 19th century classic is presented at California's First Theatre.

Final performances are set at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, June 14-16.

The theater, the oldest in the state, is located at the corner of Scott and Pacific streets in historic downtown Monterey.

Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and teens and $4 for subteens. The theater box office is open 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and 1 to 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

For tickets or information, call 375-4916 or 649-5561.

NO. 1 MONUMENT

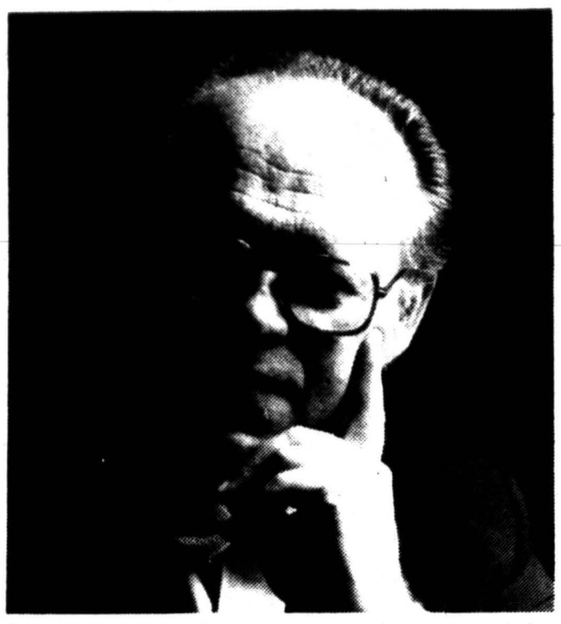
Concluding concerts planned for Mozart in Monterey

A CAST of musicians has gathered here to form the Chamber Orchestra of America, the orchestra-in-residence for the fourth Mozart in Monterey Festival under the baton of Music Director Oleg Kovalenko.



MAESTRO OLEG Kovalenko again conducts the Mozart in Monterey concert series, which continues at several locations.

Performances will be held in three locations on the Monterey Peninsula — June 14 at the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey, June 15 at King Hall on the campus of the Naval Postgraduate School, and June 16 and 17 at the Santa Catalina Performing Arts Center.

A special feature of this year's festival will be the return engagement, on Friday, June 15, of the 12-year-old violin prodigy, Leila Josefowicz. Josefowicz performed for a standing-room only audience at last year's Mozart Festival.

She first came to national attention in 1988 when she performed at the televised opening of the Bob Hope Cultural Center in Palm Desert and was given a standing ovation by President and Mrs. Reagan. She is currently ranked along with Midori as one of the most outstanding young artists in the United States, and this summer is scheduled to perform with the Los Angeles Philharmonic at the Hollywood Bowl, and in London with the Academy of St. Martin-in-the-Fields under the direction of Neville Mariner.

The first orchestral concert on Friday, June 15 will feature Josefowicz performing the Saint-Saens Concerto in B Minor for Violin and Orchestra. This same concert will present three works by Mozart: the Six German Dances, his Symphony No. 41 in C Major, known as the "Jupiter", and his Symphony No. 26 in E Flat Major.

On the following evening, June 16, violinist Elaine Skorodin and violist Janet Lakatos will perform one of Mozart's greatest works, the Sinfonia Concertante in E Flat Major. Elaine Skorodin, a student of Jascha Heifetz, has appeared as soloist with many major American and European orchestras.

Janet Lakatos has served as principal violist and soloist with the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra, and has appeared as soloist at the Ojai, Salzburg, Casals, and Cabrillo festivals.

The closing orchestral concert on Sunday, June 17 will feature two soloists performing two different Mozart concertos: violinist Stuart Canin, concertmaster of the Chamber Orchestra of America, will be heard in the Concerto 4 in D Major, while pianist Jerome Lowenthal will join the orchestra for the Concerto 25 in C Major.

Stuart Canin was concertmaster and soloist with the San Francisco Symphony from 1970 to 1980, and is a frequent guest artist at the Aspen, Santa Fe, Spoleto and mostly Mozart festivals. Jerome Lowenthal has appeared as piano soloist with virtually every major orchestra in the United States, including Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, New York, and Los Angeles.

On Thursday, June 14, Stuart Canin and Jerome Lowenthal will be heard in a violin/-piano recital featuring works of Mozart, Prokofiev and Brahms, and on the afternoon of Saturday, June 16 Lowenthal will present a piano recital.

All ticket sales are being handled by Center Stage Ticketing, 467 Alvarado, Monterey, CA 93940, telephone 649-5561.

Master oboist John Mack will return to Hidden Valley Theater

JOHN MACK will present his seventh annual solo oboe recital on Wednesday, June 20 at Hidden Valley Theatre in Carmel Valley. Mack will be accompanied by pianist Marc Shapiro for the 8 p.m. performance. For information or reservations, call Hidden Valley at 659-3115.

OBOE VIRTUOSO John Mack, will present his seventh annual solo recital at 8 p.m. Wednesday, June 20 in Hidden Valley Theatre, Carmel Valley Road at Ford Road, Carmel Valley. His program, yet to be announced, will be chosen from the repertoire of 20th century composers: Bartok, Head, Piston, Sancan, Siegmeister, and Vaughan Williams.

Principal oboist of the Cleveland Orchestra, Mack participated this spring in the orchestra's Asian tour. He also has many solo recital performances to his credit including appearances at Carnegie and Severance halls, and the International Double Reed Society Congress in Graz, Austria. Marc Shapiro, pianist for Mack's Hidden Valley recital, also performed with him in Graz. Shapiro was heard recently in Carnegie Recital Hall with oboist Jeff Rathbun.

Mack recital tickets are $10 each and may be purchased in advance and at the door. For more information about the recital and the John Mack Oboe Master Class, call Hidden Valley Music Seminars at 659-3115.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

The katydid at noonday

NEWSBREAK: Booker John Kelly announces right at deadline that Cannery Row's Monterey Plaza Hotel will offer a Jazz on the Bay series. Sunday afternoons (12-4; lower terrace). Opener — Ace Hill Quartet (6/17). Next up—John Cortes Quartet (6/24). "No cover and no minimum," says Kelly, adding that these weekly get-togethers will run through September. More next time.

CHILEAN POET Gabriela Mistral was the first Latin American wordperson to win the Nobel Prize for Literature. She scored big in 1945. The katydid at noonday/winks with its hindlegs.... This bright voice hums and curls down my inner ear as the jazz world gives up news about female artists.

San Francisco Bay Area Women's Philharmonic will note its 10th anniversary with an expanded 1990-91 season. The schedule announced by Music Director JoAnn Falletta includes 10 world and United States premieres of works by women. The superb jazz composer and pianist Mary Watkins will be represented by new writing at concerts slated for March 21 and 23 next year.

Over the trusty telephone, Mary revealed from Oakland home that JoAnn's invitation led her to offer the second movement of a Watkins symphony entitled The Sword That Heals. "This's for full orchestra and jazz combo. We'll use a quintet, at the very least, or maybe a sextet."

And: "I got that title from a chapter heading within a book by Martin Luther King, Jr. Gospel music comes into play — old spirituals and old blues too."

The March 21 program will happen at Mills College Concert Hall. Generally, the Women's Philharmonic uses First Congregational Church of San Francisco. Anything from the pen of Mary Watkins makes drive time particularly worthwhile.

Elsewhere, the magical composer and vocalist from Brazil uses her first name only — Joyce. She's on her first North American tour and will be at Kimball's in San Francisco through Saturday night (6/16). Sharing the bill: Toninho Horta. Reservations suggested. The club has a good dinner menu.

PolyGram Records released Joyce's initial North American album last month. Watch for Music Inside. An advance cassette shows that her songs combine passion, whimsy, social commitment, delicacy, strength. Among the backup players: this area's own Ray Drummond on acoustic bass, Horta, tenorman Ralph Moore, Lizzie Bravo, Smitty Smith, Lincoln Goines.

"I sing a lot of songs in English," says Joyce. "I decided to make the translations myself — to keep the meanings. I sing a lot of songs in Portuguese too. A beautiful, musical language."

Joyce's recording career took off in 1967 after she did her own compositions at a Brazilian music festival. "In my generation, I was almost the first woman composer. Before me there were only two or three. I became a big scandal because I was the first woman (there) to act like a woman, talk like a woman, and write like a woman in my songs."

She speaks with clarity and humor — the opposite of autohypnotic self-promotion. The excellent package presents her cover of Tracy Chapman's revolutionary anthem with Portuguese lyrics adapted to cite current issues in her homeland. Some originals celebrate the sadsweet Brazilian sound while also coming from a soul of obvious resilience. "I was much influenced by Tom Jobim." He returns that regard, calling Joyce "one of the greatest singers."

QUITE SPECIAL — Brazilian composer and vocalist Joyce has her first North American tour and album hitting at almost the same time. See jazz column for details. (David Spagnolo photo.)

Cellist Karen Andrie figures prominently in the group fronted by Brazilian percussionist Helcio Milito. Other members: flutist Ray Fabrizio, Brazilian pianist and arranger Weber Drummond. They'll play a concert at Hidden Valley Performing Arts Center on Friday evening (6/15). Eight o'clock kick; ducats ($10 per) available via Center Stage Ticketing and at the door.

Milito recorded with Duke Ellington, Jobim, Milton Nascimento, Edu Lobo, on and on. He has served scores of albums. The event's put together by Richard Armbrust of Pacific Grove's In Time Productions.

Finally, pianist Monica Harle leads a tight trio on Friday and Saturday nights at Highlands Inn's Fireside Lobby. With Terry Miller on electric bass and drummer Joe Gershin.

THAT BENEFIT for painter Bruce Arris and writer wife Jean at Shanty Malone's (Valley Hills Center) indeed was a daylong jazz festival. Only an impressionistic approach will do:

How generational lines dissolved behind the music's sheer force and variety. (This best symbolized by the mutually appreciative handshake between Papa Jake Stock and young Brazilian pianist Weber Drummond.)

The big crowd's joy. It became a collective surge — like a meadow filled with summer bees.

Fascinating set by Drummond and master percussionist Milito. "I told you (Weber) has three hands," chuckled Carmel beachmaster Bill Pentony. Flutist Kenny Stahl's pleasure over working with such complete musicians.

Seemingly endless foodstuffs served up by chef Ken Weeks and helpers. Jazz photographer Will Wallace sharing his recipe for Down Home cornbread.

The month-old Holehouse Blues Band coming on like stone pros out of South Chicago. Dancers on the roomy deck couldn't resist those shuffles. Leader David Holehouse plays mouth harp. "We're at Cancun (The Crossroads) every Thursday night." And Saturday evening 6/16. Bookers better jump all over these guys before the price rises.

Dottie Dodgion's smoky, soulful vocals. Keyboardist David Kempton (aka Dasher) digging her skills as a drummer: "That lady got some chops."

TRITONS AND Nereids, represented by Milou Ivanovsky, Renee Farjeon and Olga McVay, dance to the music of Henry Purcell's Dido and Aeneas.

DIDO AND Aeneas by Henry Purcell is brought to life by the Monterey Opera Association, Inc., Friday through Sunday at the Monterey Peninsula College.

Monterey Opera Association stages 'Dido and Aeneas' June 15-17

THE MONTEREY Opera Association will present three performances of Henry Purcell's Dido and Aeneas. This multi-media production features the Ballet Fantasque dancers, choreographed by Kira Ivanovsky and a 16-member chorus accompanied by a small chamber orchestra.

Linda Purdy and Gene Albin will sing the title roles. The opera is staged by Kelley Alexander.

Dido and Aeneas will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, June 15-16, and at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 17.

Admission is $12 general. Discounts are available for students, senior citizens and groups of 10 or more. For reservations, contact Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561.

The performances are sponsored in part by Monterey Peninsula College, the AT&T National Pro-Am Youth Fund, the Monterey County Cultural Council, Merrill Lynch, and other private contributions.

Scenic bike treks benefit Lung Association

The American Lung Association's "Big Sur and Beyond Bike Trek," offers cycling enthusiasts the best of California's coastline as they ride from Santa Cruz to Santa Barbara.

The Aug. 18-25 trek, lead by experienced cyclists and trek coordinators, provides seven nights camping and one layover day as the journey travels south from Santa Cruz along Monterey and Big Sur coastlines into San Luis Obispo County and on to Santa Barbara.

Trekkers ride on behalf of the American Lung Association by securing a pledge minimum of $550; high-quality cycling equipment, clothing and specialized bicycles are awarded as incentive prizes for additional pledge collection.

For further information about this ride, and other American Lung Associatin Bike Treks, call 757-5864, 425-0335 or 805-543-4947.

sound system. Keyboardist Scott Brown reporting that their son Adam (just turned five) has a taste for drums and piano.

Primary organizer Sara Moore: "We raised more than $2,500 today. It couldn't have happened without (music coordinator) Bobby Phillips." Bob and bassist Buddy Jones backing one vocalist after another.

The quick wit of singer Lauri Hofer.

Insider Bill Clements revealing conversationally that a major Arris benefit will be held at Monterey Bay Aquarium next month (7/28) — art auction, champagne, jazz. "Sure — go ahead and print it. Julie Packard couldn't be kinder to the notion (supported by the various art association heavyweights)."

Monterey Vocal Jazz Ensemble's a capella tone poem. Partytime onlookers became absorbed listeners. Leader Bill Allison splitting for his regular Sunday evening sets at Portofino Cafe. (With saxist Les Rose.)

The band Illuminati calling down even more bliss via rollicking R&B. Lee Durley (multiple electric keyboards), Eric Tonn (drums), Howe Cochran (guitar).

Cartoonist Bill Bates sketching pianist Jennifer Gee-Schoon. She's 9 and studies with Bobby Phillips and played some solid boogie woogie.

Stella LePine dancing up a storm. She's Monterey Jazz Festival education coordinator. Husband Jimmy at his drums — performer's fun personified.

The beautiful girl-child (7 or 8) completely involved in Dottie's brushwork. Maybe Ms. Dodgion's an inspiration without knowing so.

Bruce remarking upon how editors do chop jobs on art books. Even then — even after the Arris home's destruction by fire — the gentleman could laugh.

Sara Moore: "I feel really happy. Who wouldn't?"

SIGHT BITES: Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz spotlights the amazing Don Pullen Trio on Monday night (6/18). Starts at eight o'clock; $12 apiece; Center Stage Ticketing.

Strong shows there for weeks ahead — tenorman Pete Christlieb with Dick Hindman Trio (6/25), Mal Waldron and Chico Freeman (7/2), Ray Barretto (7/9), Phil Woods Quintet (7/16).

• Guitarist-singer Mahesh produces a special show to help celebrate Stan Laurel's birth anniversary. Performing with him at Pacific Grove's Portofino Cafe on Saturday night (6/16) — composing guitarists Josh Coley, Bobby Romero, Rex Wheeler. it's $7 per; reservations suggested (373-7379); eight o'clock lift-off. Comic actors Cary Crockett and Bob Coulter will appear as — yes — Laurel and Hardy.

• Papa Jake Stock leads various configurations at Shanty Malone's. Saturday through Tuesday evenings (6-9).

• The Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club brings in smooth vocalist Buddy Conner (6/20-21). He has recorded with John Handy and Class, joining that worthy bunch onstage at the last Monterey Jazz Festival.

Others: Higher Feelings (6/14), Kevin Feeney and What's Up (6/15-16), Bob Phillips and Terry Miller (6/17), Don Pendergrass unit (6/18), Jack and Ed Show (6/19).

MBC booker Mary von Saltza has quite a famous mother-in-law — the writer Anita Loos.

• That KAZU Blues Jam cooks on Sunday afternoons. Monterey Brewing Company. Players, singers, cheerleaders — y'all come.

• The Afropop Worldwide show over KUSP-FM features Venezuelan bandleader and salsa star Oscar De Leon. Monday night (6/18) at nine.

The station will note Pops Armstrong's self-assigned birth anniversary (7/4) via daylong jazz programing. Literally — midnight to midnight. Kudos. Fine jazz deejays at that outpost — Pete Fallico, Larry Blood, Ben Ellman, Leon Allen, Graham Connah, others.

Volleyball played seriously at MPC

Volleyball teams will compete for more than $1,000 in cash and prizes in each of three grass volleyball tournaments to be held at Monterey Peninsula College during the next few months. The first tournament, co-sponsored by Voley and MPC, will be held June 16-17.

Other tournaments are slated for the weekends of Aug. 11-12 and Oct. 6-7.

Saturday play is open to two-man men's and women's teams in the Open and Class A competition; four-man men's and women's novice teams, and four-man open junior teams for players under age 20. Sunday competition is for two-man coed teams in open and A classes, and four-man coed teams in novice and junior divisions.

Players will begin checking in at 8 a.m. both days, with games scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

The entry fee is $10 per player for one day, or $15 per player for two days. Entries for the June 16-17 tourney are due June 15 at Voley, 302 Central Avenue No. 1, Pacific Grove.

Entry forms are available in MPC Physical Education Division office, at all area high schools and city recreation departments. For information, call Ross Holcomb at 373-6879, or Christine Hunsley at 646-4220.

PUBLIC NOTICE

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA
CITY COUNCIL
ORDINANCE NO. 90-06
AN ORDINANCE AMENDING CHAPTER 17.46.120 - CONDITIONS ON USE PERMIT - OF THE MUNICIPAL CODE

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission is the designated planning agency for the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea; and

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission is vested with the authority to review and take action on requests for conditional use permits; and

WHEREAS, the approval of use permits is granted on the basis of certain conditions; and

WHEREAS, a systematic means for periodic review of use permits is needed to ensure that the conditions on which the use permit was granted are being carried out;

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section One. Chapter 17.46.120 of the Municipal Code is amended as follows:

17.46.120 Conditions on Use Permits.

A. The Planning Commission shall establish conditions for use permit which are determined to be necessary to carry out the goals, objectives and policies of the General Plan, and the purpose and intent of all City ordinances related to the requested use.

B. Unless otherwise stated in the conditions of the use permit, all use permits issued to commercial activities shall be reviewed by the Planning Commission annually. The review of the use permit and the inspection of the business premises shall determine the state of compliance with the conditional use permit and City regulations.

Section Two. Severability. If any part of this ordinance is found to be unenforceable, such finding shall not affect the enforceability of any other part.

Section Three. Effective Date. The ordinance shall take effect 30 days after final adoption.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea this 5th day of June, 1990, by the following roll call vote:

AYES: COUNCIL MEMBERS: Brooks, Fischer, White, Wright, Grace
NOES: COUNCIL MEMBERS: None

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINSITER ESTATE

1. To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: DOROTHY M. HOLLIDAY, aka DOROTHY MAE HOLLIDAY.

A PETITION has been filed by LAWRENCE HOLLIDAY AND DAVID HOLLIDAY in the Superior Court of California, County of Monterey.

THE PETITION requests that Lawrence Holliday be appointed as personal representative to adminsiter the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to adminsiter the estate under the Independent Amdinistration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 29, 1990 at 9:30 a.m. in Probate Dept. located at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, California 93940.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearnce may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal represetnative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interestd in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Attorney for petitioner: RICHARD D. GORMAN, GERSTL & GORMAN, INC., 33 Soledad Drive, Monterey, CA 93940.

Goodwill Industries is putting out a call for paper and plastic bags for use in their stores in Monterey and Santa Cruz counties. Grocery bags will be received at Goodwill stores and Attended Donation Stations throughout the area.

Free AIDS testing available

If you think you've risked contracting AIDS from sexual contact or sharing of IV drug needles, a free test is available to see if you have been exposed to the virus. The test is anonymous; you do not have to give your name.

Daytime testing in the Monterey Peninsula area will be offered Mondays and Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Health Department, 1292 Olympia (in parking lot of Broadway and Noche Buena), in Seaside. Appointments are required. For information or appointment call 899-8100.

In Salinas, the test is offered 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays at the Health Department, 1270 Natividad Road. For an appointment, call 755-4512.

Evening testing is available 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays at the Salud para la Gente Clinic, 10 Alexander St., downtown between East Beach and East Lake streets, Watsonville. For an appointment, call 728-0222.

Legal Services challenge grant

A challenge grant has been received by Legal Services for Seniors from the Community Foundation for Monterey County. The grant will match dollar for dollar every contribution received by the agency from attorneys in Monterey County during the remainder of the year.

For more information, call 372-3989.

Make a child's wish come true

Do you have a boy's or girl's bicycle in good condition that you no longer use? If so, contribute it, tax-deductible, to the Buddy Program of the Monterey Peninsula. For details, call 649-0276.

Welcome a French student

A group of 30 French students and their teacher/chaperone will visit Northern California for a four-week home stay this summer, July 6 through Aug. 3. The visit is sponsored by Nacel Cultural Exchanges, a non-profit group.

All of the students speak English, and they are coming to California to learn about American family life. Students bring their own spending money, and the program provides insurance. They may accompany host families if travel is planned during the stay.

Anyone interested in hosting a student may contact Ruby Gore, area coordinator for Nacel, at 356-1247.

Tuition-free job training

The Carmel Unified School District is now accepting enrollment applications for adults in the cosmetology/-hairstylist ROP Training Program.

New classes start every 30 days. For further information, call Chuck Phillips at 624-3544.

No-fee job search available

Attention Monterey area employers and professional, technical and management-level job seekers: did you know there's an organization called Profile that can help you with a wide range of no-fee job search services?

Profile is sponsored by the Employment Development Department in Monterey and is a network for its members and a resource bank for local employers with positions to fill.

For more information, call 649-2922 and ask for Profile.

Seniors receive free health checks

Free health check-ups for older adults are offered by the SCANS (Senior Citizen and Nursing Services) program of the Monterey County Health Department. Persons over age 55 are eligible.

Appointments are required for the screenings, which are offered in Carmel at the Presbyterian Church; in Pacific Grove at the community center, 515 Junipero and at the Sally Judd Griffin Senior Center, 700 Jewell Ave., in New Monterey at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center.

To schedule an appointment, call 899-8100.

YMCA Summer Adventure Daycamp set

Boys and girls age 5 to 12 may register for the YMCA Summer Adventure Daycamp, offered at the YMCA of the Monterey Peninsula, 600 Camino El Estero, Monterey.

Persons age 13 to 15 may apply for counselor-in-training positions.

The camp is set June 18 through Aug. 24, and times are 7:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. For more information, call 373-4167.

Foster care families needed

The Office of Community and Children's Services needs homes willing to share their families with children who need an alternative home — whether it be for six months or the whole year — while family reunification services are offered, or eventually a permanent home.

Almost every currently licensed foster home is filled, the office reports. For information about fostering or adopting a child, call 899-8061 or 755-4660.

This 2 bedroom, 1 bath home could be spruced up to live in now...and developed at some point in the future. Second story ocean and Point Lobos views. Don't just buy any ordinary home...Buy one with income potential. Some owner financing available. $485,000.

WALK TO DOWNTOWN CARMEL

This eight year old 3 bedroom, 3 bath home is only a short walk to downtown Carmel or Carmel beach. A beautiful stained glass window adorns the front door which opens into the living room with hardwood floors and fireplace. The built in buffet in the dining room provides additional storage space and convenience when entertaining. The tile kitchen has a sit down bar, great for quick on the go meals and easy clean up. Two decks offer a choice of spots for relaxing outdoors. Call us and see this quality home priced at $495,000.

SHARE THE DREAM IN THIS CARMEL CLASSIC

This vintage Carmel home has been beautifully remodeled with meticulous attention to each and every detail. Located on a serenely private corner lot, this two bedroom, two bath home is loaded with special extras...charming French doors, wainscotting, oak floors, gourmet kitchen with a sunny bay window, wool Berber carpeting...and the most spectacular showcase gardens. This is an excellent value for the discriminating buyer at $595,000.

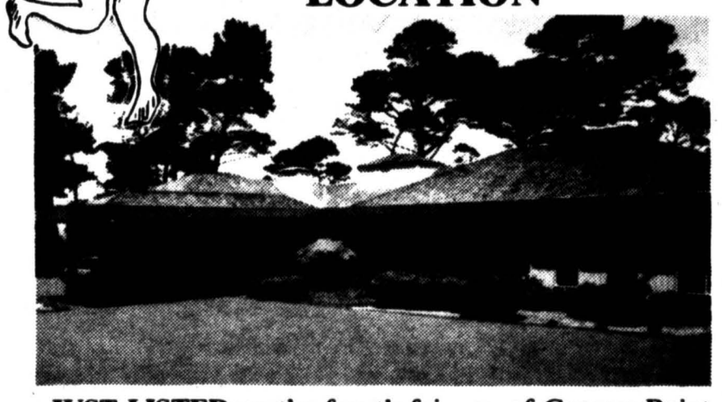
AN INCOMPARABLE LOCATION



JUST LISTED on the fourth fairway of Cypress Point golf course...a supremely livable and luxurious custom home, offering complete privacy with superb views of the ocean and golf course from almost every room. Big picture windows, large rooms, convenient floor plan, and an expanse of sun-flooded decks are among the many features of this thoughtfully constructed home. There are five bedrooms, including an incredible master suite, besides step-down living room, dining room, modern kitchen with every appliance you could want, and delightful family room with fireplace. The house stands on a two-acre site set off by magnificent pine trees. It's the home YOU deserve! $2,200,000.

WHY WISH AND WAIT...

FOR THE CARMEL home you've always dreamed about? Here is THE Carmel charmer...one block from the beach...set in a delightful garden...and with all the touches that will enchant you the instant you see them. For example, the living room has vaulted beam ceiling, plus handsome fireplace with wood mantel, and pleasing garden outlooks. You'll admire the Spanish-tile counter in the kitchen, as well as the cozy breakfast nook. Outside to the rear is a sun-flooded brick patio, and further beyond is an elevated garden. A wonderful weekender — with room to expand. $625,000.

MAKE YOUR DREAMS COME TRUE

HERE'S A HOME in Carmel that was a delight to begin with, but the present owners have made it a dream, adding a new master bathroom, heating system, indoor laundry, and garage. A white picket fence with an inviting garden gate beckons you inside, where you'll find a living room with fireplace and vaulted beam ceiling, a cheerful kitchen with pretty blue and white tiles, two bedrooms, and two baths. The newly landscaped garden has a big redwood deck that's a real sun trap. $429,500.

LOCATION PLUS CURB APPEAL

LOCATED south of Carmel's Ocean Avenue within easy walking distance of beach and village is this comfortable family home with four bedrooms, and even a peek of ocean. Downstairs is a big living room, and to the rear is a deck which catches the afternoon sun. A white picket fence in front gives a nice old-fashioned touch, and a driveway runs along the south side of the house leading to a new carport in the rear. You'd probably want to update and redecorate the interior, but what a jewel you'd have when you're finished. $695,000.

Cookbooks, kitchen items sought

The American Cancer Society Discovery Shop in Pacific Grove is collecting new and used cookbooks and kitchen items for their Fourth Annual Cookbook sale, to be held July 14.

Donations may be dropped off at the Discovery Shop, 184 Country Club Gate Center, Pacific Grove, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday. For more information, call 372-0866.

June is 'Tom Cat Tune-up' month

To coincide with Adopt-A-Cat Month, the SPCA of Monterey County announces its second annual "Tom Cat Tune-up Special."

During the entire month, all male cats, whether adopted from the SPCA or not, will be neutered in the SPCA's low cost spay/neuter clinic for $15.

This discount is made possible through donations to the SPCA's spay/neuter fund.

It is necessary to make an appointment for such neuter operations by calling the clinic at 373-2631 or 422-4721, Monday through Friday, during business hours.

CARMEL
MORE FOR YOUR MONEY
Tired of too small, too old & too much $$?

Here's where you can find a real home to live in year round; not something that is only suitable for weekends or a few months at a time. This 3 bedroom, 2 bath, 1750 sq. ft. is sure to become more valuable as the city fathers (and mothers) continue to reduce the allowable house size. This home looks deceptively small from the street but it even has a family room and space for a 3rd bath. It was remodeled from a small cottage in 1979 so it features a new kitchen and new master suite. The split level design affords privacy to the master bedroom which also has a fireplace, walk-in closet, skylight, French doors to a hot tub, deck and tree-top views. You won't have to compromise on location either; it's 2 blocks south of Ocean Ave. on a quiet street. By Appt. $495,000

MID-CARMEL VALLEY
Golf Course
Mountains & Ocean Views

The views from every major room of this outstanding home give one the feeling an eagle must experience — soaring with 20 miles of landscape beneath you. The split level design means each view is different and affords privacy especially to the separate master suite. The open floor plan with the "great room effect" makes entertaining fun for everyone including the cook. The new kitchen features walls of oak cabinets, Jenn-aire cook top, microwave, trash compactor and breakfast bar for 8 people all with views thru the sun room to the valley beyond. 2 Guest bedrooms and a bath complete this main living level with vaulted ceiling thru-out. Downstairs is a large family room with adjoining solarium or 4th bedroom, laundry room, and bath. The exterior is fully and lushly landscaped with drought resistant plants all on drip irrigation. Other bonuses include a spa in the large deck, solar hot water systems, dog run, 2 fireplaces, lavish master bath and 2 car garage with storage area.

MAMMOGRAPHY CENTER of Monterey can offer complete breast health information at no cost according to owner Mary Lou Catania, R.N.

Mammography Center provides complete breast health care

For the past year, the Mammography Center of Monterey has been providing women of all ages with complete breast health education at no charge.

According to the American Cancer Society, only about 15 percent of eligible women are having mammograms. Currently there is no prevention known for breast cancer, with early detection yielding the best results.

The center uses state-of-the-art equipment with the lowest dose of radiation possible. Because the center only does mammograms, developing time is extended, which lowers the level of radiation by 30 percent.

"A dramatic decrease in mortality was seen when Pap smears became widely available," says Mary Lou Catania, R.N., owner of the center. "We will see the same decrease for breast cancer if more women can afford mammography."

Since January, the center, accredited by the American College of Radiology, has given more than 16 presentations to women at local schools and other organizations as part of an on-going education program to save lives.

For more information call 373-8932. The Mammography Center is located at 700 Cass St., Suite 120 in Monterey.

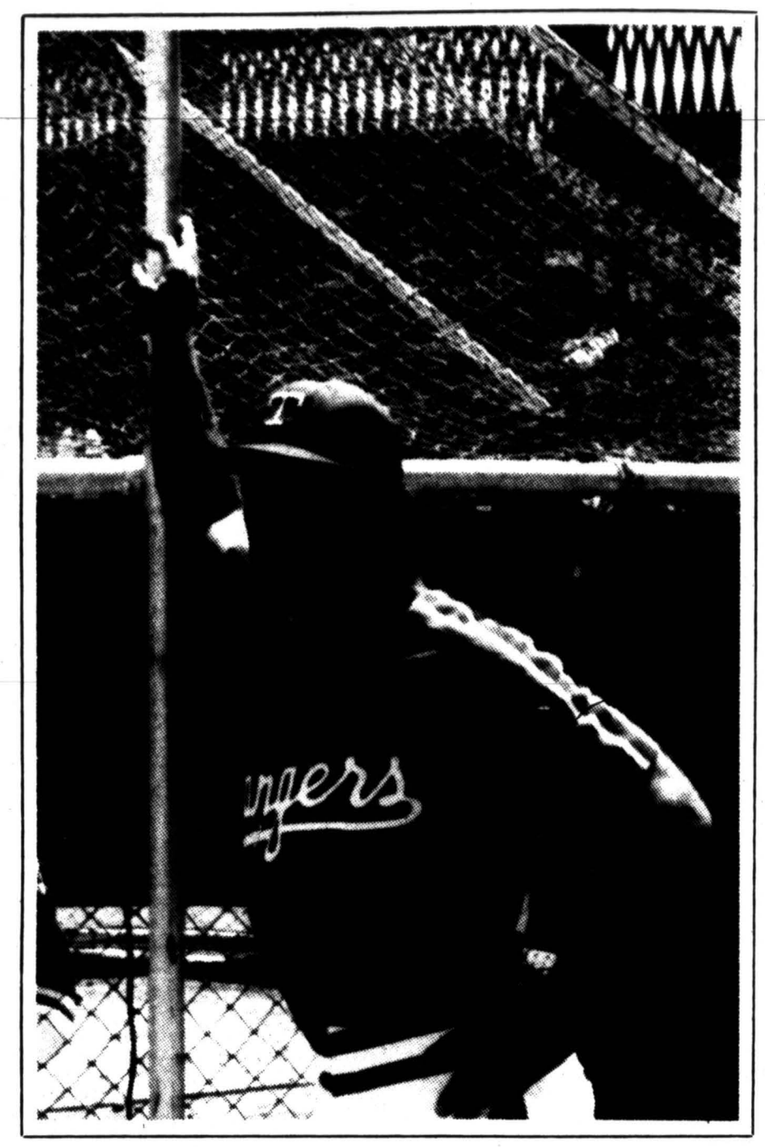
Proper conditioning needed by the weekend athlete too

With the tremendous increase in weekend or recreational sports for both men and women, the need for proper conditioning and safety is greatly overlooked.

During my five coaching seasons with the Texas Rangers baseball team, the Rangers would hold free clinics for the baseball fans in the Dallas area. During the clinics, I found a great many of the participants to be out of shape and poor in flexibility conditioning. Yet, these weekend baseball players would try to perform athletically on a professional level — with poor results — ending in injury.

Recreational athletes should follow some basic rules for pre-game conditioning to ensure greater physical safety and fun while playing baseball or any sport. Weekend athletes should become involved in a conditioning program at a local fitness facility. Choose one that is well staffed by trained personnel who understand the demands of your individual sport or activity.

Remember...a conditioning program should include the use of weight training, flexibility and aerobic programs based on the individual's level of experience. Remember, too, that professional athletes work out on a regular basis. Always go through a pre-game warm-up program that includes stretching and some jogging or short sprinting. Recreational sports should be both fun and safe. Have fun...and good luck!



GEORGE DUBETS can offer the recreational athlete the same experience, knowledge and expertise he brings to professional baseball's Texas Rangers.

The sun is only minutes away at Carmel Valley Racquet Club

You pop out of bed ready for a day at the beach. The picnic basket is packed, you've got your shorts on, only to look outside and see the fog lingering in the trees. You plop onto the recliner and click through the channels.

Stop! There is an alternative!

Grab your tennis racket, your sunscreen, and yes, your picnic basket. The sun is only minutes away!

The Carmel Valley Racquet Club sits just out of the fog line, only a short two miles from The Barnyard and The Crossroads. Your moment in the sun is not lost.

The club offers a variety of activities depending on your mood. If you're a tennis player, the club offers several options. One is the "match-finders" program. By a simple phone call, their staff will help find you a tennis game according to your ability and schedule.

The Wednesday night round robins are always popular and a great way to meet new friends. For the serious tennis player, there are many lessons and clinics taught each day as well as club tournaments throughout the year.

If you are interested in fitness, then don't wait to call about their fitness memberships. Whether you enjoy aerobics, swimming, or toning up with weights, you can enjoy it seven days a week.

The club has several aerobic classes per day ranging from low impact to advanced....you might even give aqua aerobics a splash. The fitness center with its full line of Cybex equipment, Stairmasters, Lifecycles, and free weights will get you started on your fitness goals.

With the weather warming up and the kids out of school, having a pool to enjoy is a real plus. There are two pools. The adult lap pool is open all year from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. every day. The junior pool is open during summer and fall and is perfect for swim lessons, and families with small children.

If it's tennis, fitness, swimming, or relaxing, the Carmel Valley Racquet Club is a great place to lay down your towel. Fog doesn't have to keep you inside, get fit this summer! The memberships are very reasonable, so call 624-2737 for an appointment to tour the club.

ACTIVITIES FOR kids are abundant at the Carmel Youth Center, where the City of Carmel's "1990 Summer Happenings" gets under full swing this month.

Plenty of summer activities offered by Carmel Rec Dept.

Summer is here and so are the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea's 1990 Summer Happenings.

Bring your family and a picnic lunch to Devendorf Park for fabulous fun and entertainment for all ages during the noon hour on Wednesdays and Fridays.

Hey kids! Check out the arts, crafts and dance classes. What? Cooking without a stove? We've got it. Thought about being a new tennis star? Lessons will be given all summer by our expert staff.

Join the Carmel Youth Center staff for exciting safaries to great summer places, or join them for hot summer videos. Don't forget to check out Checkers Snack Bar for tasty treats.

Thought about getting in shape? Well we have the answer. Our coach will develop a plan for your during one of the classes.

The library staff has developed an exciting summer adventure program from storytimes and book talks to special programs.

Enjoy our parks, walking trails and our beautiful beach. Carmel-by-the-Sea has summer fun for everyone.

The goal of Carmel's Recreation Department is to provide recreational opportunities for everyone. We appreciate your participation and support.

If you would like to se a particular class offered or have a comment about a class or program, give us a call at 626-1255.

Get the skinny on Skinny's: It's not just a yogurt shop

MORE THAN just a yogurt parlor, Skinny's in the Del Monte Center offers a full menu of healthful and non-fattening goodies that change with the seasons.

Skinny's is more than just a frozen yogurt parlor. The restaurant offers a great fresh menu that changes with the seasons.

With meals prepared by experts in the field of health, Skinny's provides a health-watcher type menu featuring low-fat and low-cholesteral ingredients.

Enjoy the juicy vegiburger, made from soy, oats and vegetables, served on a sprouted whole wheat roll.

Or maybe you're in the mood for a vegetarian enchilada, broccoli soup or a fresh Oriental salad, topped with Ann Howe's (who hails from Carmel), Oriental dressing.

Top off your meal with a Skinny's Smoothie, which also makes a great snack. Here you'll find a delicious, 16-ounce blend of low- and non-fat yogurt, 100 percent pure fruit juice, topped with fresh fruit.

Skinny's is located in Del Monte Center and is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday; until 7 p.m. Saturday and 5 p.m. Sunday. Phone 372-0202.

THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA IN COOPERATION WITH THE CARMEL YOUTH CENTER PRESENTS

1990 SUMMER HAPPENINGS

CARMEL YOUTH CENTER

The Carmel Youth Center is a drop-in center for middle school and high school students. It is located at the corner of Fouth Avenue and Torres Street. The Center is open during the summer Monday through Saturday from 12 to 8 p.m. and Sunday from 12 to 6 p.m. The Center offers a meeting place for youth. While visiting the Center, enjoy a hot game of ping pong, a skillful game of billiards; challenge your talents at one of many video games or condition yourself in the outstanding weight room under the expert direction of the professional staff. And don't forget the new Checker's Snack Bar and Lounge for great food at unbelievable prices.

The Center is also available for birthday parties and offers special programs including trips to some of the most popular amusement parks. Recreation programs are also offered at the Center for various age groups.

For more information or updates on weekly activities, please call 624-3285 or 626-1255.

Our Thanks

The Carmel-by-the-Sea Recreation Department would like to thank the Carmel Unified School District and Carmel Youth Center Board of Directors for their continual cooperation in making their facilities available for use by the Recreation Department. This cooperation enables Carmel area residents to make maximum use of existing public facilities.

VOLUNTEERS ARE NEEDED

Volunteers are needed for the Youth Center and the Recreation Department. If you have some extra time this summer and would like to help out, please let us know. Please call the Recreation Department at 626-1255.

Innovative Rosas techniques provide impact-free workouts

By DAVID LELAND

Heavy-impact aerobic exercise is no longer a prerequisite in producing optimal health. Just ask Denise Medved, who this summer is instructing the innovative Rosas Non-Impact Aerobic Technique.

"I've never done a program that is as good and does as much as this program," says Medved, 38, of the technique created by Debbie and Carlos Rosas of Portland, Ore. "You don't feel like you're beating yourself up."

Being hailed by fitness experts as one of the safest and most enjoyable forms of cardiovascular exercise, Rosas classes provide a combination of Eastern movement philosophies such as tai-chi, meditation and aikido, plus modern dance.

"It addresses the whole being, including the mind and spirit as well as the body," says Medved, who has been selected to initiate the courses on the Monterey Peninsula. "It's great for anybody, but with no impact to the joints or internal organs, people who have weight management challenges, arthritis, physical injuries or fit into the over-60 category can keep their hearts strong and healthy with this program."

Medved, who is a marketing consultant transplanted to the peninsula via Madison Avenue, trained 18 weeks with the Rosas to perfect their teachings.

"It's intensive," said Medved, referring to hours spent on self-study and in Marin County, Portland and Mexico training with the Rosas. "You can't just take a course in one day and get a certification."

This August she will again travel to Portland for refresher courses on the Rosas technique.

Besides being great for weight reduction, the Rosas technique also serves as a stress reducer, says Medved.

"I do this because I love it and it's a part of my life," says Medved, who is also a nationally certified exercise instructor. "People should do one hour of exercise every other day for stress management."

No stranger to exercise regimes, Medved began experimenting with physical fitness while still a youngster.

"My dad was one of the first bodybuilders in the U.S., so I've been exercising since I was a child," says Medved. "This (Rosas) cardio program is the most sensible, safe and fun technique I've ever studied. It's literally going to revolutionize the fitness industry because it allows everyone to participate."

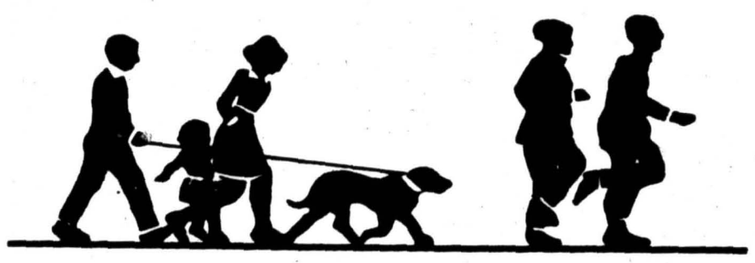
Medved calls the Rosas classes exercise for the "mind, body and spirit."

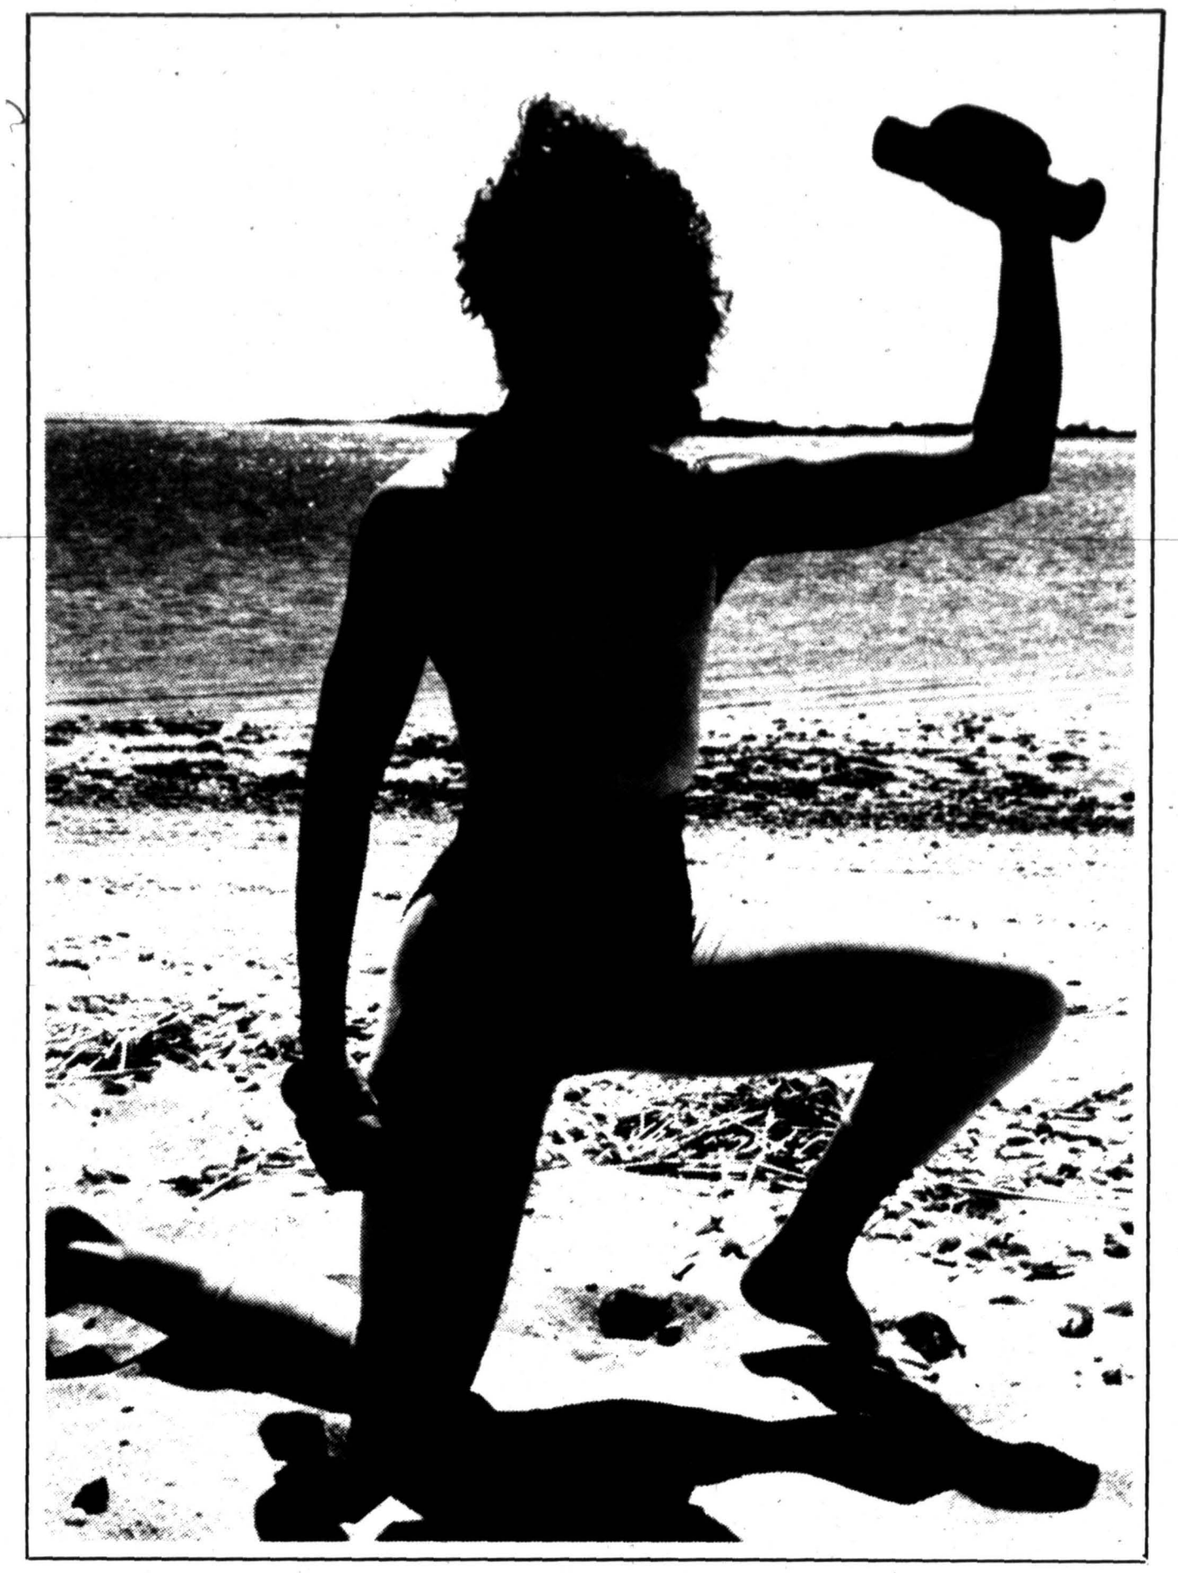
"I love teaching this class; this is a treat for me," she says. "When you come out of an hour class, you feel good about yourself."

Classes run in six-week summer sessions, which began June 11, and include three classes each week.

Hours are 7:45-8:30 a.m. or 5:45 -6:30 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday and take place at the Carmel Ballet Academy, located at Mission Street and Eighth Avenue.

The six-week session is $90 per person or $7 per class. For more information and registration call 625-0646 or 625-3729.





DENISE MEDVED offers physical proof that the innovative Rosas Non-Impact Aerobic Training that she now teaches is an effective way to get and stay in shape without the pounding and overexertion of most exercises. (Kristi Posvar photo.)

Gold's Gym equipped to cater to all levels of training

Many people who have only heard of Gold's Gym or never actually visited a Gold's Gym have the impression that they are only equipped to cater to the male bodybuilder.

Although they gladly welcome bodybuilders, Gold's Gym of the Monterey Peninsula is a full-service facility and offers a variety of programs to meet the health and fitness needs of its members.

The owners and fitness staff of Gold's Gym Monterey Peninsula share over 18 years of health club and fitness experience with degrees and backgrounds in physical education, exercise physiology, strength training, sports massage therapy, nutritional counseling, and weight training certification.

Gold's aerobics staff are also certified individuals who offers a variety of classes for the beginner to the advanced level.

Participant programs offered at Gold's Gym Monterey Peninsula include daily aerobics classes, Super Abs classes, Stairmasters, Lifecycles, Windracers, personal training, bodybuilding, weight loss programs, licensed massage therapist, nutritional counseling, Gold's Gym sportswear and pro shop, and tanning facilities.

The goal of the staff is to provide members with the best fitness training facility in a comfortable, safe environment.

Gold's Gym member Bill Patterson, owner of WL Patterson Co. says, "I enjoy the friendly atmosphere and the professional staff at Gold's. The workouts I receive on the Windracer have helped me improve my cardiovascular system."

Sherri Elliott, Kelvin Fountano, and Nick Manzo, owners of Gold's Gym Monterey Peninsula, invite you to visit their facility at 1760 Fremont Blvd. Seaside or call 394-8870 for further information.

YOU MAY think that Gold's Gym in Seaside is for serious bodybuilders only, but it is actually a full-service facility that offers a variety of programs for men and women.

SUNSHINE SURF & Sport has been the Monterey Bay's complete source of supply for surfers for the past 14 years, but its also serves sailboarders, skateboarders and beachgoers as well.

Hit the beach in style thanks to Sunshine Surf & Sport

For the past 14 years, Sunshine Surf & Sport has been the Monterey Bay's complete source of supply for surfers, sailboarders, skateboarders and beachgoers.

Sunshine Surf & Sport maintains a complete supply of water sport and beach necessities as well as all of the clothing, swimwear and accessories to suit the lifestyle.

The store also provides lessons and rentals for surfing, bodyboarding and windsurfing.

Sunshine Surf & Sport has been the sponsor for the past 10 years of the annual Surfabout, held at Carmel Beach, which this year is scheduled for June 23-24, beginning at 6:30 a.m. each day.

The two-day event includes surfing, longboarding, boogie boarding, skimboarding, kneeboarding, distance paddling and team relay paddling races.

Contest entries are limited to Monterey County residents, which is imposed by the city of Carmel to maintain the local, hometown flavor of the Surfabout.

There is also plenty of action in the sand at the Surfabout, as the event includes a complete two-person volleyball tournament.

For more information call 375-5015. Sunshine Surf & Sport is located at 443 Lighthouse Ave. in Monterey.

Denture designs leap forward

If you are one of 21 million people wearing dentures or removable bridges in the United States, you now have something to look forward to.

Current advances in the design of denture teeth materials allows dentists to fabricate dentures that are extremely pleasing. The latest composite and porcelain teeth look so lifelike that in many instances you cannot tell the person is wearing dentures.

When a person loses their natural teeth, their gums and bone undergo tremendous shrinkage within the first six to nine months after the extractions. This shrinkage will continue the rest of their life.

Since dentures rely on the gums for support, it is essential take care is taken in supporting structures and minimize their shrinkage. Ill-fitting dentures will accelerate this shrinkage to an astonishing rate. In many cases there are no gums left for support. The warning signs are as follows:

- Extremely loose dentures that require a lot of denture adhesive.
- Multiple sore spots.
- Increased difficulty chewing.
- Incorrect bite.
- Food getting under the dentures.
- Premature wrinkling.

These are just a few of the signs that will tell you to have your dentist check the dentures for proper fit and function. Not all people will show these symptoms. It is recommend that everyone be checked yearly by their dentist. In addition to checking the fit of the dentures, he will do an oral cancer exam.

Early detection of ill-fitting dentures can result in simple correction of the problem. Good-fitting dentures will minimize the amount of gum shrinkage you will have. You will be able to wear dentures longer and more comfortably.

If you need new dentures, take heart in the fact that with the new cosmetic teeth, you may be able to eat better and even look younger.

The family that runs together

By DAVID LELAND

The family that runs together has fun together. Just ask Annis Lembo, matriarch of Carmel's Lembo Racing Team.

They're easy to spot, just look for black T-shirts emblazoned on back with "Lembo Racing Team." Then, look for the marathon runners who are having the most enjoyable time.

"It started out as a preoccupation," says Lembo, who owns Hampton Court Properties in Carmel. "Now I've got my whole family running."

That would be sons Phillip, 31,; David, 28; Tony, 25; and daughter-in-law Laurel, 27, who is married to Phillip.

"We all run with the exception of my husband, who prefers to be our financier," says Lembo, 54, of her husband, Charles, who owns Cyberdata Corp. in Monterey.

Three weeks ago the family entered the Bay to Breakers in San Francisco and they have plans to run in the Wharf to Wharf in Santa Cruz next month.

"From the standpoint of a family activity it's just like skiing," explains Lembo, who began running as a lark on the insistence of a friend four years ago. "The family that runs together stays together."

Her new-found athletic prowess comes as quite a change for Lembo, who was never even picked for team sports when she was young.

"I was a wimp," she remembers. "When I was young I was totally unathletic. I would end up crying because I was so uncoordinated."

Well she's still pretty lousy at bouncing a ball, but she is slowly making her mark in the area as a serious runner, training three of four days a week at total distance of about 30 miles.

The high point thus far for two of the Lembo team was the running of the Big Sur Marathon, with a finishing time of 4 hours, 45 minutes.

"I just sort of got it in my head that I wanted to do a marathon," says the energized Lembo. "Just because it's there."

Once she decided to enter the race, she called Phillip and chided him into joining her.

Using Galloway's Book on Running as her bible, Lembo abandoned all other activities and trained six days a week.

"Your whole everything becomes running," she says, adding that running was all she talked about. "I was beginning to bore the world."

The duo decided not to tell anyone they were entering the marathon, but made a secret pact.

"We did agree to run it together," says Lembo, adding that Phillip has the ability to run much faster than she. "It was important to us to a mother and son sort of thing.

As the two rounded Hurricane Point and ran smack into stiff, gale-force winds, Phillip turned to Annis and said, "Mom, this is awesome."

But they finished faster than expected.

"We paced ourself. We projected a five-hour finish," she says. "We never finished faster than a 10-minute mile."

Lembo says she finished the race feeling fine, and got up the next morning and excercised.

"I'm probably more proud of this than anything I've ever done," she says. "We (entire family) will all do the Big Sur Marathon next year."

Lembo is realistic on how many races her family can enter during a given year.

"Unless you are a professional marathon runner, I don't see how anyone could do more than one or two races a year," says Lembo, who stopped smoking cigarettes about the time she began running.

But Lembo does have a dream for the Lembo Racing Team: entering the prestigious Boston Marathon.

With Lembo's drive, no one doubts that anything is possible. Nothing at all.

CARMEL'S LEMBO Racing Team features not only mom Annis Lembo, but sons Phillip (shown here), David, Tony and daughter-in-law Laurel. Mom and son ran in the recent Big Sur International Marathon, finishing at 4 hours 45 minutes.

Home whitening one of many cosmetic dentistry advances

For years many dental patients have longed for a whiter, brighter smile. Home whitening is among the many exciting advances in cosmetic dentistry. This home procedure allows patients to easily treat many types of tooth discoloration and enhance their smiles.

Previous whitening techniques were costly, involved a complex process, and anywhere from five to nine lengthy appointments. Today, whitening allows the dentist to begin the implementation of whitening programs in just one appointment with the patient continuing the process at home from four to six weeks.

This simple and effective technique allows individuals with abnormal tooth discoloration as well as those with normal range of color to whiten their teeth to meet cosmetic demands.

A whiter, brighter smile may be yours in just a few short weeks.

To find out how you can benefit from home whitening and other cosmetic techniques, consult office of Gregory Senter, D.D.S, and Renee E. Luba, D.D.S at 899-1200, located at 800 Portola Drive in Monterey. And, beginning this August at Fourth and San Carlos in Carmel, 626-4400.

CYC weight room is also open to adults

By DAVID LELAND

A handful of Carmel residents are taking advantage of what is almost akin to a private health club.

That would be the weight room at the Carmel Youth Center, where only about 10 residents and a smattering of city employees utilize the state-of-the-art facility during adult hours.

"It's somewhat of a well-kept secret," says Don Covington, the youth center's strength and conditioning coordinator, who is a nationally certified strength and conditioning specialist.

Indeed, only four people could be found working out at noontime in the sunny, spacious facility last week under Covington's expert guidance.

"The equipment is incredible and it's not crowded," says Carol Goldberg, who, on her lunch hour, merely crosses the street from Monterey Building & Development where she works to take advantage of the classes and stay in shape. "It's amazing there are not more people doing it."

Adult classes are offered in two different "packages," between noon and 1 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday (for $28 per month), and 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday (for $36 monthly). Covington says more people could sign on without affecting the intimate mood.

"We could take on 10 to 12 people without anyone getting in the way," says Covington, 47, who also coaches athletics at Stevenson Lower/Middle School in Carmel.

Tuesday and Thursday's classes are given by Covington's protege, Pat Lenz.

Equipment at the weight room runs the gamut, from a variety of free weights and several weight benches, to Universal and Nautilaus machines, practically everything one would need, whether a beginner or serious bodybuilder.

Covington joined the forces with the weight room when it opened three years ago, after then-mayor Clint Eastwood personally donated $20,000 and managed to get another $35,000 worth of equipment donated to the cause from Gold's Gym in Southern California.

"It was Clint Eastwood's idea to get it going for young people," says Covington, adding that about 30 students from local high school and middle schools are taking advantage of the facility. "But it was also his idea for city employees to get fit."

With that in mind, men and women from public works, police and fire departments make use of the weight room to stay in shape.

Covington, who worked with gymnast Joan Moore in the 1972 Olympics, spends time with all those who attend his classes.

"Don's a great coach," says Lanette Penna, who began working out at the gym three years ago. "The program is very personal; he works with us individually, which is very important."

And that's not all, Covington says the gym is in the process of getting all new equipment from Diversified Products.

Several pieces, such as a state-of-the-art stationary bicycles, treadmill and "stair-stepper," have already arrived.

Those who approach working out with dedication, experience a sort of kinship with their fellow exercisers.

"I like being with the group," says Maxine Jennings, who has been working out for two years. "Physically I've improved tremendously; I find that I feel so much better after exercising. I'm sort of hooked on it."

For more information on adult and youth classes, call 626-1255.

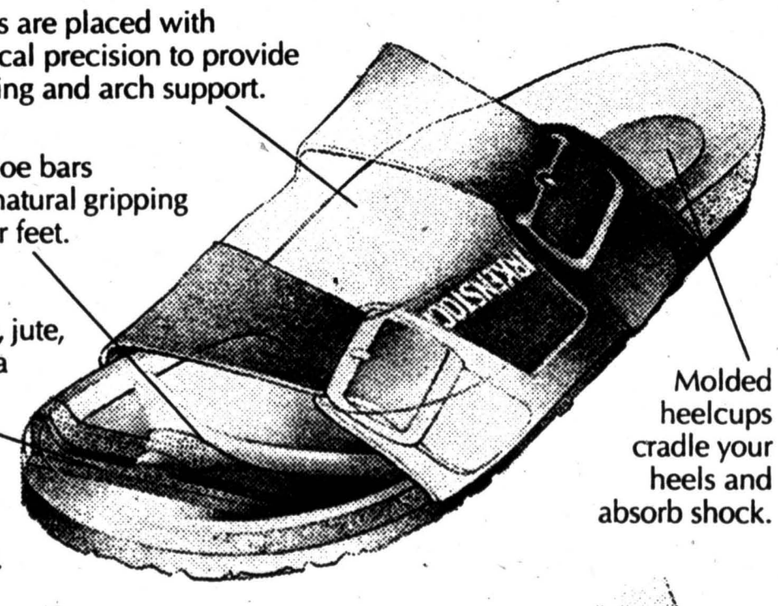
Contours are placed with anatomical precision to provide cushioning and arch support.

Slightly raised toe bars encourage the natural gripping motions of your feet.

Layers of suede, jute, and cork form a footbed that responds to your feet, cushioning impact, even on hard ground.



Molded heelcups cradle your heels and absorb shock.

Birkenstock footbeds energize your feet by absorbing shock, cushioning and supporting the arches, and allowing your feet to move naturally. And unlike other shoes, the perimeter from toe to heel is straight, following the natural shape of your foot.

The Monterey Clinic combines best in modern health care

The Monterey Clinic is a new, modern health care facility which brings together the disciplines of medicine, chiropractic, psychology, physical therapy, massage therapy and other ancillary services. They combine pre-existing practices and experience with the most recent concepts in health care today.

Offices are conveniently located in Monterey at 550 Camino El Estero, across from lake El Estero.

The Monterey Clinic is comprised of four doctors. Stephen Barkalow, D.C., clinic director, has recently moved his chiropractic practice from Carmel. Travis Sanchez, D.C. is new to the area, specializing in modern gentle chiropractic. Peter E. Franklin, M.D. is a family practice/urgent care physician and has been medical director at a clinic in Salinas. Amy Roth, Ph.D. is a psychologist specializing in counseling.

Their practice is dedicated to providing the comprehensive health services — medical, chiropractic physical therapy and psychotherapy — that will make a difference in your life.

They are the first independent group of multi-disciplinary medical and chiropractic doctors on the Monterey Peninsula; and as such, we are well-equipped to evaluate a patient's individual needs and to choose the most appropriate method of care. They combine medical, chiropractic and psychotherapy services under one roof for unparalleled service.

A Special Experience

They believe that your visits to the office will be quite unlike those you've ever experienced. They've carefully pulled together all the elements that determine a successful visit: a team of highly trained doctors and other allied health care professionals, modern office facilities, and a warm, caring staff. These elements form the essence of their practice philosophy.

Individual Service

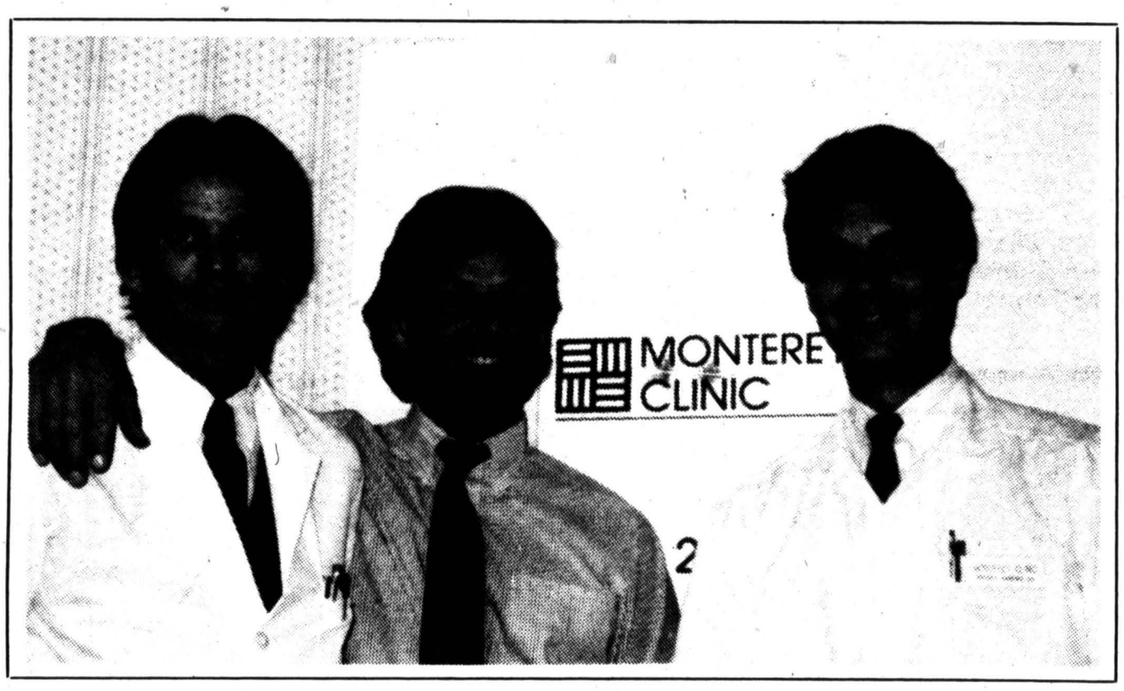
They feel that the best way to treat your physical problem is to first get to know you as an individual. They talk with you carefully about medical and chiropractic methods of treatment; and together, you and your doctor choose the best approach for you.

A Comfortable Atmosphere

Modern medical and chiropractic facilities blend well inside their warm and spacious office. They strive to help you feel comfortable and relaxed.

Except in the case of an emergency, they prefer to see patients by appointment. This allows the receptionists to schedule an ample amount of time for your visit.

They make every effort to keep our appointment schedule on time. You can expect prompt, courteous and quality care at The Monterey Clinic.



THE MONTEREY Clinic brings together the talents of doctors Stephen Barkalow, Peter Franklin, Travis Sanchez (pictured), and Amy Roth, combining existing practices with the most recent concepts in health care today.

Monterey Gymnastics Center offers programs for all ages

A non-profit organization, Monterey Gymnastics Center offers programs for all ages, from tumbling for tots to championship training for boys and girls.

Directors of the center are Hiroshi Fujimoto, Gloria Elber and Rick Johnson.

Monterey Gymnastics Center enjoys an enviable reputation in the world of gymnastics. Fujimoto, in addition to his responsibilities as director and head coach at MGC, is also United States Gymnastic Federation State chairman and one of only 53 safety certifiers throughout the nation for the United States Gymnastic Federation Safety Certification Program.

Director Gloria Elber is artistic coordinator at the center and girls coach. She has over 25 years experience in dance, and the gymnasts she coaches are recognized and admired for their combination of dance and gymnastics. In addition to her responsibilities at MGC, Elber is also executive director of the Frohman Academy in Carmel.

Director Rick Johnson brings many years of sports training to his position at the center. Combining a degree in behavior with his history in athletics.

In addition to the directors, MGC offers a professional coaching staff dedicated to teaching the art of gymnastics. Coach Margarite Stovall is former choreographer to the Soviet Junior National Team. Her former students include such world renowned gymnasts as Soviet gold medalist Alexandra Didytin. Coach John Liden has coached girls at local, state and national elite levels and is the former owner of Rainbow Gymnastics in Pleasanton. Team Coach Andy Cross, recently returned from the World Games, is responsible for team and non-team coaching as well as skills analysis, and Jackie Garrett, Miwako Moteki, and Chanel Lewis are MPC students and former gymnasts who work with developing gymnasts at the center.

Monterey Gymnastics Center offers classes ranging from tots, to introductory gymnastics, and on to championship competition. In the words of Director Rick Johnson, "there is a place for everyone at MGC — some will compete, some will appear in exhibitions, and others will meet a personal challenge through participation in the sport — yet no matter what the goal, MGC offers each participant professional expertise to help them meet, and often exceed, their personal goals in a safe and supportive environment."

You Don't Have To Eat Pesticide-Treated Foods! There Is A Safer Alternative!

If you have been alarmed by the recent publicity concerning the presence of potentially harmful chemical residues in your food, then you should know two things:

1. You are not alone
2. You have viable, affordable alternatives

ORGANIC MEANS POISON FREE

For decades, a small but dedicated group of farmers has been committed to farming practices which do not use any synthetically-compounded chemicals in the growing or processing of their foods. They employ techniques and practices commonly referred to as "organic farming".

Since 1973 the Granary Market has been quietly committed to using all of its resources to making these natural and organically grown foods available to health-conscious consumers.

California state law* sets the legal requirements for how organic foods must be grown and processed. If the foods are labeled as certified organically grown*, they must meet these requirements.

It has always been our conviction that, ultimately, when fully informed, the consumer will choose health-promoting foods.

Today, fortunately, the availability of certified organically grown foods and no spray fruits and vegetables is greater than ever.*

We invite you to visit our store. Ask for some information about our produce. Try some! The taste alone will convince you of its superior quality, not to mention that most of it is grown without the use of any potentially harmful sprays or chemicals.

Comfort-first footwear is the hallmark of Birkenstock

Tucked away in the Paseo San Carlos Court on San Carlos Street between Ocean and Seventh is Birkenstock Footprints, the first Birkenstock store in America.

Open for 15 years, the store carries a full line of comfort-first footwear, in all sizes and shapes for men, women and children.

Birkenstock footwear: sandals, clogs and shoes, have a unique cork innersole that acutally molds to the contours of your feet. This recreates the surfaces your feet were origianlly adapted to and in doing so improves your posture and circulation to let your walk in a more healthy, natural way.

The Birkenstock footwear is so exceptional that several European governments offer reduced insurance premiums to workers who wear them.

All footwear sold by Birkenstock Footprints is carefully fitted: even those with special problems can be fitted with shoes modified to their needs. And Birkenstock footwear can be resoled time and time again.

Birkenstock Footprints features other fine footwear and accessories, such as the Finn Comfort shoes. These leather crafted shoes feature classic yet contemporary styling with cork and latex innersoles that cushion your arches. Finn Comfort Shoes are manufactured carefully and precisely to the highest standareds for years of comfortable use.

Mephisto shoes, Birkenstock Footprints latest acquisition, is the most fashionable yet. Mephisto, whose first American store was opened just two years ago in Aspen, has already acquired a following across the country.

Birkenstock Footprints provides its customers with special services found nowwhere else in the area. Services that include custom fittings, special modifications and repair, as well as resoling as needed.

Many of Birkenstocks Footprints' customers have their size kept on file for future orders or mail order. Birkenstock also ships worldwide.

The store is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Phone 624-5779.

The perfect vacation for kids is offered through the YMCA

The YMCA of the Monterey Peninsula offers a wide variety of activities for school age children, the perfect way to spend all or part of the summer vacation.

The mission of the YMCA is to enhance the spirit, mind and body of the individual and the quality of family and community life through activities conducted in a dynamic, caring and nonsectarian environment.

The YMCA is committed to family life and continues to believe that family, regardless of the role each person plays, is still the place where values are formed, love is learned and self-image is developed.

Programs offered this year include Summer Adventure Camp, a 10-week program designed to help children 5-12 develop camping skills and craftmaking; Summer Swim Program, for children 6 months and up; Soccer Camp; School Age Day Care; Ju-Jitsu; Scuba Diving and Fencing.

Goals of the progams include helping the child develop:

- An eagerness to explore, learn and appreciate the wonder of the world.
- Confidence in their ability to learn and express ideas.
- Respect for themself and others and to see individual differences among people.
- Self-motivation, self-reliance and the ability to complete and critically evaluate tasks or projects.

The YMCA is located at 600 Camino El Estero in Monterey. For complete program information call 373-4167.

BONNIE BELL, manager of Pacific Trim & Tone would be happy to introduce you to the new Acu-Massage table, scientifically developed to offer a full range of massages, ranging from deep and penetrating to very gentle — all at the touch of a button.

Trimming and toning your body doesn't have to be arduous

For those too tired to work out, but who still want to get in better physical shape, Pacific Trim & Tone might provide the answer to your dilemma.

Located in Pacific Grove, the salon is attracting people who are looking for a passive, yet effective, way to exercise.

"It's a geat place to tone up, lose inches from your body and to relax in a nice atmosphere with no sweating," beams spokesperson Bonnie Bell.

Hundreds of similar salons have opened across the country in the last two years, promising health by using state-of-the-art toning tables, such as those at Pacific Trim & Tone.

"You don't really need to work out here," says Bell. "The machines do everything for you."

Here's how it works.

The toning system uses seven new fitness machines, with workouts taking lesss than an hour.

The toning system works the body to firm, tone and tighten, while at the same time increasing strength, endurance and flexibility.

Pacific Trim & Tone says that most people will notice an inch loss after only a few sessions, provided the person is consistent with their workouts.

The toning tables all serve varying functions in toning up the body.

- Multi-Function table. This combines the toning actions of eight separate exercises.

Stomach-Hip table, strength and tones the abdomen, hips and buttocks.

- Leg table slenderizes and tones the leg and concentrates on reducing the inner and outer thighs.
- Stretching table strengthens and tightens muscles in abdominal and midriff areas, while the arms and lower back are tightened.
- Circulating table massages the body with a gentle vibrating action to increase circulation.
- Sit-up table works to tone the abdominal muscles.
- Twister table alternately raises and lowers legs to reduce waist, abdomen and hips.
- Side-side stretches the lower torso from side to side, toning muscles in the abdomen, strengthening the lower back and waistline.

Pacific Trim & Tone now features the Acu-Massage table — the world's best body massager.

Pacific Trim & Tone is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and is located at 716 Lighthouse Ave. in Pacific Grove. Phone 372-5095.
